Mr. K Builds Up New Berlin Crisis

In Attempt To Frighten, Divide West

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev now appears determined to build up a new, if limited, Berlin crisis in advance of the May summit conference. His aim is to frighten and divide the Western powers and break down their position in West Berlin.

Khrushchev could carry his pressure strategy to a point where President Eisenhower might feel compelled to reconsider whether he should attend the summit meeting. He has repeatedly declared he would not negotiate under threat.

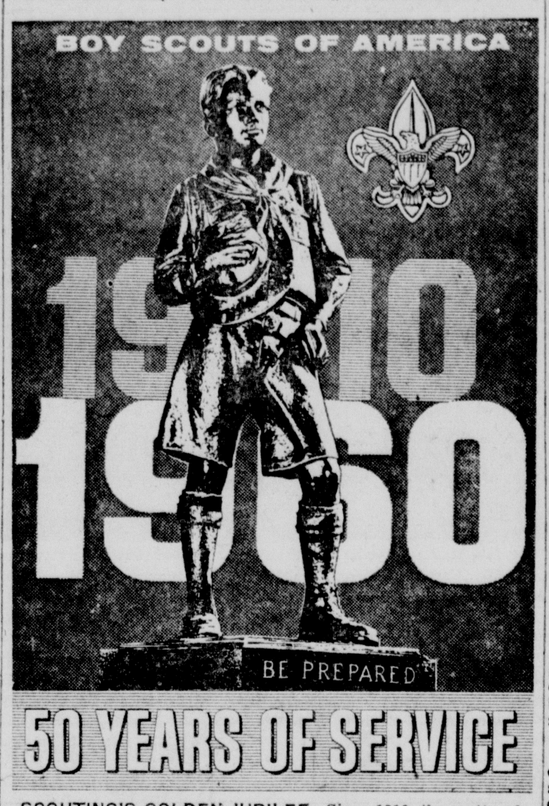

Summit conference plans would be in jeopardy, authorities said, if Khrushchev—having already revived his threat of a separate East German peace treaty—should also reinstate some kind of deadline for the West to abandon Berlin or risk a Communist squeeze to force them out.

At the White House and State Department, officials speculate Khrushchev will stop short of a wide open crisis. But most of them also believe Khrushchev is trying to use his advantage in nuclear missile power to achieve diplomatic victories.

Eisenhower administration leaders insist there is no real danger that the Soviets would use the greater missile capability to start a war in view of U. S. power to strike back.

Khrushchev obviously does not believe he is negotiating from weakness; he may be convinced there is a weakness and lack of resolution on the Allied side.

The latest move in his campaign to force concessions from the West came Thursday when leaders of the Soviet bloc in Europe announced they would sign a peace treaty with East Germany unless the West accepted a peace treaty for dividend Germany. This the West has repeatedly rejected.

Official poster above commemorates the anniversary.

Father Of Four, Worried By Debt Takes Rat Poison

CHICAGO (AP) — A young father of four who said he was debt-ridden and "hounded by creditors," died Saturday after consuming rat poison.

William Rodriguez, 24, a clerk, returning to his home from work Saturday, told his wife he had eaten rat poison purchased in a drug store. Then he lapsed into unconsciousness.

Police took him to a hospital where his stomach was pumped and he regained consciousness. He told police he had taken the poison because he was hoplessly in debt. He was released from the hospital but several hours later became ill again. He was returned to the hospital where he died.

Probers Call For Congress To Outlaw Quiz Shows, Payola

WASHINGTON (AP)—House investigators Saturday called for prompt action by Congress to outlaw rigged quiz shows and payola and to eliminate other abuses in the troubled broadcast industry.

They sharply criticized two federal regulatory agencies for not acting on their own against the television quiz show scandals and other irregularities.

In a report to the House, the investigators said that both the Federal Communications Commission and the Federal Trade Commission appear to have adequate authority "to eradicate most, if not all, of the deceptive and corrupt practices" which have been disclosed.

Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) described this as the principal conclusion of the report by his Legislative Oversight subcommittee.

The FTC has recently issued several dozen complaints against persons it accused of illegal payola practices. The FCC, after lengthy hearings, announced new rules it proposed to adopt to bar phony quiz shows and payola practices.

Harris also emphasized a recommendation that the FCC be empowered to put a station or network off the air "a day or so even longer" if it persistently airs programs which, in the FCC view, do not serve the public interest.

Harris told a news conference he intends to press for enactment of the subcommittee program at this session of Congress.

His group will open public hearings Monday into payola—undercover payoffs— to radio-TV disc jockeys and others in exchange for the plugging of records and other products.

In addition to recommending that quiz show rigging and payola be made criminal offenses, the subcommittee offered several other proposals "to bring to an end existing abuses in the use of the airwaves."

It was that Congress, among other things, should:

1. Require the licensing of radio and TV networks and subject them to the same FCC regulations that now apply to individual stations. Under present law, the FCC supervises the networks only indirectly through its regulation of

Mitchell Predicts Changes In Labor Practices In 1960s

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rapid and massive changes in the labor force in the 1960s will require the abandonment of job discriminations based on race, age, sex and color, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said Saturday.

Mitchell made public a Labor Department study showing that industry will be hit by a tide of young and inexperienced workers just as it feels a shortage of men in their working prime—the group that provides managers and foremen.

The proportion of older workers and working women will climb steeply, the report said. Two of every five employes will be over 45, and by 1970 one of every three will be a woman.

If management can cope with these impending shifts—and with the need for better-trained and better-educated employes — the country's manpower resources can support a 50 per cent gain in production, Mitchell said. That would mean a 750-billion-dollar output in 1970, compared with a recent rate of 485 billion.

Hinted at, but not directly discussed in the comprehensive study, was a question raised by some economists: whether the economy will grow rapidly enough to absorb a net increase of 13½ million in the labor force in 10 years without painful unemployment.

Mitchell told a news conference that the study assumes there will be high-level prosperity, no depression, and no war. So, he said, high employment, a 25 per cent rise in living standards, and a three - quarter - trillion - dollar output rate not only are realistic, but conservative targets for the decade.

But the road is beset with complex problems, the secretary said.

"In brief, we in the United States have a critical and difficult task before us in making the best use of our manpower in the next 10 years," he said.

"We must improve individual competence, present and prospective, across the board, and use all our manpower resources without regard to race, sex, age or physical handicap."

While the population will be climbing from 180 million to 208 million, or 15 per cent, the number of workers will grow by 20 per cent as the children of the postwar baby boom come of working age.

In the single year 1965, there will be 3,800,000 youngsters reaching age 18—a million more than in 1964—and will be ready for work or college. This is the 1947 bumper crop of babies.

Over the whole decade, 26 million new young workers and 3 million women will enter the labor force, some 40 per cent more than during the 1950s. Only 15½ million older workers will die, retire or stop working for other reasons.

By contrast with the startling increase in younger workers, there will be an actual decline of 200,000 in the number of working men and women between 35 and 44, the group from which management executives and supervisors usually are drawn.

This deficit, resulting from the low birthrate during the depression years of the 1930s, "will place a heavy burden on personnel management and will force changes in traditional practices in recruitment, selection and training," the secretary said.

False Alarm--It's An Anniversary Not A Baby

LONDON (AP)—The bark of guns and the peal of church bells caused thousands of Londoners to believe Saturday that Queen Elizabeth's baby had arrived.

It was a false alarm.

The noise of artillery salutes echoing over the city commemorated the 7th anniversary of the Queen's accession to the throne.

However, thousands of people called newspaper offices, asking: "Is it a boy or girl?"

Outside Buckingham Palace, crowds cheered Prince Philip as he drove home from a shooting vacation in Norfolk to be near his wife when the baby is born.

The midday boom of a 41-gun salute from Hyde Park started the rumor that events had preceded him. From the lofty towers of Westminister Abbey the great bells seemed to confirm it.

When the baby does arrive, the bellringers will sound a full peal of bells, reserved for royal marriages, births and coronations.

Miss Helen Rowe, the Queen's maternity nurse, has not yet taken up residence at Buckingham Palace. She is expected to do so about three days before the estimated time of arrival.

Two Germans Go To Prison For Desecrating Synagogue

COLOGNE, Germany (AP) — Two young Germans went to prison Saturday for the Christmas Eve desecration of Cologne's new synagogue, an act that ignited anti-Jewish incidents around the world.

At the end of a one-day trial, a state court gave a 14-month sentence to Arnold Strunk and a 10-month sentence to Paul Schoenen.

Strunk, a pale-faced 25-year-old baker, told the court he regretted his act. He showed no emotion when sentenced. Neither did Schoenen, a 25-year-old apprentice clerk.

They were convicted on charges of damaging a religious shrine, slandering the memory of the dead, blasphemy, and insult. In addition, Strunk was found guilty of endangering the West German Republic.

The two youths were arrested Christmas after a massive manhunt to find the persons who smeared the outer walls of the Jewish house of worship with red-painted swastikas and the words: "Germans, we demand: Jews, get out!"

They also poured a bucket of black paint over this famous old cathedral city's monument for the victims of Nazi rule.

Strunk told the court he defaced the synagogue to draw attention to the "Jewish danger to the Germanic race." He insisted he did not approve of the Nazis' mass annihilation of six million Jews.

Schoenen, whose grandfather was half Jewish, said he is not anti-Semitic but that he did not want to leave his friend Strunk alone after Strunk had helped him smear the monument.

Schoenen said his motive was to protest against the monument's inscription which reads: "This monument recalls Germany's most shameful period 1933-1945."

Officials Start Probe Of Revolt In Algeria

ALGIERS (AP) — Three French ministers and the nation's chief of security opened an investigation Saturday of right-wing plotting in the army, police, and administration of Algeria.

Arrival of the four officials in rain - drenched Algiers probably presage a sweeping purge affecting high and low alike.

The four are Justice Minister Edmond Michelet, Interior Minister Pierre Chatenet, Army Minister Pierre Messmer and Jean Verdier, director of national security.

Heading the group meeting them were Paul Delouvrier, the government's delegate - general, and Gen. Maurice Challe, supreme commander in Algeria.

Robert Schmelck, assigned as prosecutor, was also waiting. Schmelck has been investigating the abortive Jan. 24 uprising of French settlers in opposition to President Charles de Gaulle's policy of self-determination for Algeria.

More than a score of rightist leaders already have been rounded up. Some were released under police surveillance and some were sent to the infantry officers' school camp in Cherchell, 60 miles west of here.

Only Dr. Bernard Lefevre has been formally charged with attack on the security of the state. He is in the prison where most Moslem terrorists are held.

FIRE WIPES OUT FAMILY OF FOUR

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A family of four was wiped out by fire Saturday in the Holesburg section of the city.

Peter P. Danksha, 42; his wife, Jane, 40; and their two daughters, Mary Ellen, 10, and Kathleen, 5, suffocated in their two-story brick home.

Police Lt. Thomas Gleason said the blaze started in a sofa in the living room and was confined there.

Danksha was a machinist.

Mikoyan Under Guard In Wake Of Shooting

MIKOYAN VISITS CASTRO: Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan (right) chats with Cuban Premier Fidel Castro (left) and Maj. Ernesto "Che" Guevara, the Argentine-born leftist who heads Cuba's National Bank, in the garden of the house in which Mikoyan will be staying during his visit to Cuba.

Presumably Holding Talks With Castro

HAVANA (AP) — Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan went under heavy security wraps Saturday in his campaign to pull Cuba into orbit with the Soviet Union. Cuban officials denied any knowledge of his weekend program.

Presumably Mikoyan is spending his time in intimate meetings with Prime Minister Fidel Castro and lesser revolutionary leaders, whose hospitality was marred Friday by wild gunfire near the Fine Arts Palace housing a Soviet exposition.

The impression developed that all the shooting—which threw the exposition's opening into turmoil—came from trigger-happy Cuban guards and police in efforts to break up an anti-Communist student demonstration at the nearby statue of Cuba's liberator, Jose Marti.

Silence at police headquarters and briefest coverage of the incident by the progovernment press contributed to this impression. Police would not say even how many students are detained. Estimates ranged from 10 to 24.

A police announcement Saturday night said 20 persons, mostly students, had been released after being detained in connection with the demonstration. Also released was Carlos Santos, a photographer for the National Broadcasting Co. He had been picked up earlier Saturday by guards when he went to Mikoyan's residence on an assignment to take pictures of the house. He said his film was confiscated.

At Havana University, the Federation of University Students denounced student participation in the demonstration and said it would hold a meeting to decide whether to expel those taking part.

But Cuban authorities appeared to be taking no further chances of harm to their guest.

The guards refused to say where Mikoyan was going or whom he was meeting. The assumption was that Castro had arranged a tour with him through Matanzas province east of Havana. This is a scenic area of level farms, hilly ranges, spacious bays and a great swampland called Cienega de Zapata which Castro is trying to turn into an agricultural and tourist wonderland.

Even Soviet correspondents and photographers were left behind.

Still to be settled between the Kremlin's salesman for international communism and his Cuban hosts were such questions as:

1. Possible resumption of diplomatic relations between Cuba and the Soviet Union, broken in a clash between the governments of Joseph Stalin and Fulgencio Batista in 1952.

2. A trade pact for exchange of Cuban and Soviet products.

3. A possible offer of Soviet financial assistance to the hard-pressed Castro regime.

4. Presentation of a formal invitation for Castro and other government officials to visit Moscow.

Politicians Make Hay

Johnson's Still In The Race, Speaks Of 'My Candidacy'

By The Associated Press

Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas spoke Saturday of "my candidacy" in his closest approach to outright announcement that he is seeking the Democratic presidential nomination.

The Senate majority leader told newsmen at Indianapolis that he expects to head the Texas delegation to the national convention and "I would hope it would be committed to my candidacy." Then he added:

"I'm not out seeking any delegations, but I am informed that other states plan to cast their votes for me."

He declined to name the states but said they are not necessarily from the "solid South."

Johnson's near - announcement came as Vice President Richard M. Nixon was calling foreign affairs the overwhelming issue of the 1960 campaign and Democrats were stressing domestic issues such as natural resources, agriculture and rural electrification.

Johnson's chances received an indirect boost at Albuquerque from Paul Butler, Democratic national chairman, who withdrew an earlier statement that a Southerner could not be nominated for the presidency. He told a news conference that he wanted to apologize to Johnson for the assertion—but he added "I don't see anything in the cards" to indicate that a Southerner will be nominated this year.

Nixon, moving along a clear path to the Republican nomination, addressed California publishers at Los Angeles. He defended the controversial U. S. defense program saying, "Our present course seems adequate."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota pushed his campaign for the Democratic nomination at a 13-state conference of Western party leaders in Albuquerque, N.M. He accused the Republicans of being "great wasters" of resources, including human resources.

The conference adopted a natural resources plank drawn up by a committee whose chairman said the "Eisenhower - Nixon record in the resources field has been a pitiable tale of delay, indifference, administrative sabotage and 'give away' bordering on corruption."

Humphrey's appearance at the conference followed that of Johnson who looms large in the candidate field although he has declared he is not seeking the nomination. Johnson renewed this statement at Albuquerque but at the same time made an effort to show that he is not a "conservative."

Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, with Humphrey the most active of the Democratic aspirants, spoke twice in North Dakota and was to appear Sunday at the Albuquerque session. Kennedy proposed a two-price system for wheat marketing and also claimed the Republicans have harassed and threatened the rural electrification program.

10,000 AFRICANS HEAR BILLY GRAHAM

KADUNA, Nigeria (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham preached Saturday night to a crowd of 10,000 people in Kaduna, capital of the predominantly Moslem northern region of Nigeria.

He told the meeting that mankind's hope lay in accepting Jesus Christ as saviour. He blamed sin for mankind's ills and said Christianity is not a European religion but belongs to all people.

Before the meeting, Graham met privately with the premier of Northern Nigeria, Alhaji Sir Ahmadu Bello.

They discussed the activities of the Protestant churches in the region and the Premier, a Moslem, said he appreciated the services of the Protestant missions.

Farmer Does Chores, Kills Wife, Son, Shoots Himself

BROOKVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Lester Gesell arose early Saturday morning in his well-kept farmhouse, milked two cows in the barn — and then killed his wife and son as they slept.

The 55-year - old prosperous farmer then walked downstairs to the living room and killed himself with the same shotgun.

It was Indiana's third multiple shooting in five days.

Authorities and relatives didn't know why Gesell killed his wife, Marie, 45, and 16-year - old son, Dale. They said the farmer had appeared worried lately, but nobody knew what he was concerned about.

Gesell's bachelor brother, Ronald, found the bodies when he came into the house after finishing the morning chores.

A penciled note was found on the kitchen table, scribbled on the back of a bakery advertisement and unsigned. It said simply: "Ronald, I hate to do this."

Dr. Walter Foreman, deputy coroner, said the wife and the couple's only son apparently were shot while they slept. Both received a full charge of shot in the head.

Gesell, a stocky and solemn man, owned 200 acres of "the best farmland in Franklin County." His business affairs evidently were in good shape.

Friends said he had been under a doctor's care. Relatives insisted Gesell had not mentioned taking his own life or harming any of his family.

Last Tuesday a Hartford City school principal shot two teachers in their classrooms, and then he shot himself. In Elkhart, a despondent factory worker went berserk Thursday and killed his parents and a nephew before committing suicide.

Lindsay Crosby, Bing's Son, Marries Las Vegas Showgirl

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Lindsay Crosby, dark-haired son of singer Bing Crosby, Saturday married Las Vegas showgirl Barbara Frederickson in an impressive church ceremony witnessed by all members of his immediate family.

Lindsay was the third of Bing's four grown sons to take a bride. Only the eldest, Gary, remains single. Brothers Philip and Dennis also married Nevada showgirls.

Lindsay is 22, the same age as the bride.

Among the 150 guests at St. Paul The Apostle Catholic Church in Westwood were Bing; his wife, actress Kathryn Grant; and his mother, Mrs. Catherine Crosby. They entered and left by a rear door, avoiding picture-taking that took place on the front steps.

Attendance was by invitation only. There were some 300 spectators outside the church, many of them with cameras.

It was the first marriage of the Crosby sons attended by Bing, who was host of a reception later at his Holmby Hills home.

Lindsay's brother, Philip, was best man and television actress Mina Vaughan served as maid of honor.

Alvin Frederickson of Joliet, Ill., gave his daughter's hand in marriage.

Miss Frederickson wore a white street-length sheath dress with a bolero-length jacket, long sleeves, a high Peter Pan collar and a white bow in her blonde hair. She carried a white prayer book and a spray of gardenias and lillies of the valley.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ellwood E. Kieser CSP. Communion and Mass were omitted because the bride is a recent convert to Catholicism and had not progressed far enough in her instruction to receive these rites.

The newlyweds were scheduled to honeymoon briefly in Palm Desert, Calif., and then return to Hollywood Wednesday when Lindsay will resume rehearsals for the Crosby boys' nightclub act.

Ushers at the wedding were Dennis and Gary Crosby and Peter Petitto, manager of the boys' act.

JUNGLE PRESERVE IN INDIA

BOMBAY, India (AP) — India soon will have a rival for South Africa's Kreuger National Park where tourists armed only with cameras may mingle with lions and other fauna, large and small.

It is a 500-square-mile jungle preserve at Gir, on the Kathiawar Peninsula 300 air miles from Bombay, habitat of the last of Asia's lions.

Events this year feature Dr. James Hine, pastor of McKinley Memorial United Presbyterian church and director of the McKinley Foundation at the University of Illinois, Champaign. The Jacksonville public also is invited to hear his addresses, at 11 a.m. and 7:15 p.m., Monday and Tuesday in Annie Merner Chapel.

Commenting on religion at MacMurray, John R. Rider, assistant to the president, said: "The reason for the existence of MacMurray is to be found in its basic purpose of allowing its students to pursue excellence in education in the atmosphere of a Christian institution."

Students are encouraged to pause, think, and reaffirm the ideals of their Christian faith during this week, which includes discussion groups with Dr. Hine on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday afternoons, and personal discussions.

Conducted by the Campus Christian Council, the student religious organization at MacMurray, the week begins with a film in Ann Marshall Orr auditorium at 6:15 Sunday, on "A Man Called Peter." Communion by candlelight will be held two hours later in Annie Merner Chapel, with President Louis W. Norris and Dr. McKendree M. Blair as ministers.

Dr. Hine, whose address will reflect the theme "Courage To Reach," will talk under the title "Wake Me Up When It's Over" Monday morning, and "The God-Shaped Void" Monday evening.

Tuesday at 11 a.m., his subject will be "The Courage To Be Uncommon," and that evening "The Decline and Fall of Sex."

'Satchmo' Armstrong In Jacksonville Mar. 14

The "Satchmo" himself, Louis Armstrong, will give a jazz concert in person at Jacksonville high school bowl, Monday, March 14, at 8 p.m., it was announced Saturday at MacMurray College.

Jacksonville area residents are invited to attend, with tickets going on sale next week at the Tune Shop and at the college.

"The greatest of all jazz musicians," as he often has been described, Armstrong has achieved international fame over the past 40 years. His career set the pattern for the development of American jazz, according to a majority of critics.

LOUIS ARMSTRONG

Attempting to describe him, one New York Times critic writes: "Armstrong's style of improvisation would seem to have combined the highest reaches of instrumental virtuosity with the most tensely disciplined melodic structure and the most spontaneous emotional expression, all of which in one man you must admit to be pretty rare."

The pages of the Journal Courier carried the story of his near-fatal heart attack last year while on tour in Italy. He made an unusually rapid recovery and soon was back into his busy schedule of concerts.

Armstrong was born in a back-of-town part of New Orleans at the turn of the century—July 4, 1900. His mother was a former house servant and his father was a turpentine worker. On warm nights he and some of the other boys in the gang would go down to the Mississippi and sit on the docks and sing together before going in for a swim; and soon they had formed a quartet in which he sang tenor. The quartet strolled the streets of Storyville section of New Orleans, singing new jazz songs and passing the hat for pennies until chased away late every night.

Since 1923, Armstrong has put at least 1,000 numbers on wax, and many of these records sell for $20 or more as collectors' items today. Among his best-known recordings are "Shine," "Chinatown," "Tiger Rag," "I Can't Give You Anything But Love," "Treasure Island"—and, of course, "Aint Misbehavin'" and "You Rascal, You."

The regular meeting of the Jonathan Turner Junior High School P.T.A. was held Tuesday evening, Feb. 2, at 7:30 in the school gymnasium.

The president, Ralph Sullivan, called the meeting to order. The minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. L. Omundson. The president presided over a short business meeting at which time it was voted toaward two life memberships in the P.T.A.

The president introduced J. A. Mann, Superintendent of Schools, who introduced Dr. E. C. Bone, Mrs. Kanatzar, Wayne Herrin, and Charles Williamson, members of the Board of Education. Each member participated in a discussion on the proposed tax referendum, explaining reasons why the educational tax rate should be raised.

At the close of the discussion, the P. T. A. members voted unanimously to approve the tax proposal, and to give $200 to support it.

The president announced that there would be an open meeting, on the tax referendum, Feb. 18, 7:30 p.m., at the High School auditorium.

The program for the evening was a film, "Pentomic Army," showing new weapons and guided missiles. Major Combes made introductory remarks.

Secure Speaker For Race Relations Day

Race Relations Brotherhood Sunday will be observed by the Jacksonville Council of Churches, Sunday evening, Feb. 21, when an unusual service will be held in the Congregational church at 7:30 p.m.

The guest speaker will be Rev. Patrick A. Bacchus, associate pastor of the First Methodist church in Normal, Ill., and associate director of the Wesley Foundation, Illinois State Normal University. The subject of his sermon will be "Draw The Curtain."

Mr. Bacchus is a citizen of British Guiana, South America. He received his Intermediate B. A. degree from Queen's College, British Guiana, in 1948; his B. A. Cum laude from Taylor University, Upland, Ind., in 1952; his B. D. from Garrett Graduate School of Theology in 1955, and he did graduate work in Northwestern University in 1955 and 1956.

Prior to his ministry at Normal, he was associate pastor of the First Methodist church in Pekin, Ill. from 1954 to 1956.

The service will be informal. All people living in Jacksonville and vicinity, who were born in other countries, including the local college students born in other lands, will be special guests of the evening.

Miss Marjorie Jones, featured soloist of the Union Baptist church in Springfield, Ill., and well known throughout Illinois, will be the special soloist. Group singing will be led by Willard G. Cody, with Lyndell Symons at the organ.

Following the address by Mr. Bacchus, there will be an opportunity for questions and discussion, after which a fellowship hour will be enjoyed, with refreshments being served by the ladies of the church.

The general public is cordially invited to attend the service, which is under the direction of the Ecumenical Relations Committee of the Council of Churches, of Which Rev. Frank Marston and Rev. Frederick G. Tyrrell, are co-chairmen.

Jerseyville C. Of C. Builds Membership

The Jerseyville Chamber of Commerce is conducting a membership drive which will continue until Feb. 20, according to an announcement Thursday by Neil Franklin, president of the organization.

The campaign has been going on for a week, the preliminary drive being directed with canvassing of former members who lost interest before the chamber had opportunity to make much headway. Results of this preliminary drive are reported as satisfactory to date. There are more than 150 firms or individuals in business or the professions who represent strictly new prospects, and plans call for contacting this group in its entirety before the closing date of Feb. 20.

To accomplish this, the board of directors has been divided into eight teams, each of which will have one or more non board members. Most of the workers will be unable to devote more than two or three half days a week to this effort, and because of the frequent necessity of having to call back two or three times, the task may take longer than the contemplated concluding date.

Team members report that many people have not realized the kind and amount of work the chamber has been doing for general community benefit, since there is nothing spectacular about chamber activities to gain publicity.

Despite handicaps, the chamber is continuing to follow up leads relative to new industry here. The paset month several corporations have had a look. One needed natural gas, a prime requisite, which cannot be had here at present. Another turned down the location because of the quality of the city water.

Men Accused Of Theft Admitted To Probation

JERSEYVILLE — The case of the People of the State of Illinois vs Frank Guntren and Wesley Lewis was called again in the Jersey county circuit court Thursday morning for report of the probation officer in the matter of their motion for probation following pleas of guilty entered to larceny in the same court January 28.

Guntren and Lewis were first arrested the evening of January 19 on complaints filed against them by Chief of Police H. H. Blackorby Jr., in which they were charged with theft of property belonging to the Baughman Manufacturing Company of this city.

Following their arrest they subsequently gave statements regarding their activities to local officials and agreed to waive indictment by grand jury and plead to informations filed directly in the circuit court.

Judge Sam Smith quizzed the defendants relative to their desire to waive indictment by grand jury and permitted the information as filed to stand. He accepted their plea of guilty and continued the case until February 4 for investigation and report of the county probation officer.

The case was called Thursday morning and the report of the probation officer received by the court. Judge Smith granted their motion for probation and paroled them to the Reverend J. Dallas Wallace, pastor of the North State Street Baptist church of Jerseyville.

Mayor Proclaims Boy Scout Week, Feb. 7-13

Mayor Robert A. DuBois has issued a proclamation calling attention to the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scouts of America, the observance of which begins today.

A full week of activities is planned by Scouts of Honest Abe District.

In his proclamation the mayor pointed out that the Boy Scout program has affected the lives of 33,500,000 boys and mens, and now has an active enrollment of more than 5,000,000 of whom 1900 are active locally.

The Movement now observes its golden anniversary and seeks to motivate all its leaders to further and greater effort on behalf of youth under the theme of "for God and Country."

The Boy Scouts of America, a great force for training youth in right character and good citizenship, will hold its Fifth National Jamboree at Colorado Springs, Colo., this July.

The mayor urged citizens to recognize the patriotic service being performed for the community by volunteer Scout leaders; to express their appreciation to the religious bodies, school organizations, veterans' associations, fraternal groups, and service clubs which sponsor Cub packs, Boy Scout troops, and Explorer units, and help the City of Jacksonville to be represented adequately at the great national Scout jamboree this summer.

UN Drafts Set Of Principles To Safeguard Rights Of Religious Believers Or Atheists

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations has come up with a set of 16 rules or basic principles for safeguarding man's right to be a believer or nonbeliever in religion.

They could be the basis for an international treaty designed to protect such rights.

The principles were drafted by Arcot Krishnaswami, a scholarly Indian lawmaker, after more than three years of study authorized by a 14-member U.N. subcommission on prevention of discrimination and protection of minorities.

They were examined exhaustively at a three-week session of the subcommission just concluded here and put in final form for eventual consideration by the U.N. General Assembly.

One rule says parents or legal guardians shall have the prior right to decide upon the religion or belief in which their child should be raised.

In the case of a child who has been deprived of its parents, their expressed or presumed wish should be taken into account, but with the best interests of the child the guiding principle.

Another rule says no one should be compelled to receive religious or atheistic instruction contrary to his conviction, or in the case of children, contrary to the wishes of their parents or guardians.

The rules call for taking due account of each religion or belief in respect to holidays or days of rest.

Members of the subcommission served as experts and not as policy - making representatives. But the debate reflected policies of their individual homelands at times.

Mrs Z.V. Mironova, the Soviet expert, objected at one point that Krishnaswami's report did not pay sufficient attention to discrimination against atheists.

Justice Philip Halpern of Buffalo, N.Y., the U.S. expert, declared the Soviet Union bars teaching of religion in private educational institutions, and he sought safeguards against such practices.

Scientist Finds Educational Background Of U. S. Missilemen Woefully Deficient

By LOUIS G. PANOS

BALTIMORE (AP) — In a researcher's paradise near here, an eminent scientist is trying to help plug a big hole in the educational background of American missile men.

"But it's an uphill fight," says Dr. Solomon Lefschetz, one of the leading mathematicians in the Western world.

At 75, having been jolted out of semiretirement by the Soviet launching of Sputnik I, he directs the mathematics branch of the Research Institute for Advanced Study.

He undertook the job because of a conviction that the Soviet's lead in the race for space is based on Soviet superiority in his specialty, the study of nonlinear differential equations.

These are the fantastically complex systems which underlie every natural movement, including those which must be understood in order to develop more accurate rocket controls.

Compared with the Soviets, he says, American engineers are pathetically deficient in this field. He estimates the gap at 10 to 15 years.

Some idea of the complexity of the equations may come from comparing them with linear equations, with which most U.S. engineers are familiar.

A linear equation may be used to describe the path of an iron ball dropped from a second-story window. But it is not refined enough to describe accurately the flight of a wind-blown leaf—or a rocket-fired satellite. That's a job for the nonlinear equation.

"The trouble with engineers in the United States is that they do too much 'hardware' and not enough thinking," Lefschetz says. "They believe in empiricism—the old trial-and-error method."

Lefschetz observers that the Soviets, on the other hand, try harder to eliminate the error before the trial, bank more on basic research than on specific projects, and wind up eliminating mistakes on the blackboard before moving to the drawing board.

"Too many American engineers are not trained beyond linear equations in mathematics. They use the kind of technique they learn in elementary calculus and if it works, fine. And if it doesn't work, fine, too."

Seconding this conclusion, Dr. Joseph P. Lasalle, who helps Lefschetz direct the RIAS math work, relates a conversation with one U.S. engineer.

"He told me, 'We never seem to have enough time to do a design properly, but we always have to do it over.'"

Born in Moscow, Lefschetz was schooled in Paris and came to the United States shortly after his graduation in 1905 from Ecole Centrale.

He took a job in Pittsburgh as a Westinghouse engineer, showed great promise, then had this career shattered by an accident which left him handless.

Lefschetz turned to mathematics. After a fellowship at Clark University in Worcester, Mass., he began teaching the subject, first at the University of Nebraska, then for 12 years at the University of Kansas. In 1925 he joined the faculty of Princeton University, where he served as chairman of the department of mathematics from 1945 until his retirement in 1953.

Along the way he won international recognition for his work in algebraic geometry, topology, nonlinear equations.

This came as no surprise to Lefschetz. For years he had closely followed the work of Soviet scientists, especially in nonlinear equations. Russian is one of the six languages he knows, and he became familiar with Soviet developments in his field through meticulous study of technical papers and books from Moscow.

This was one reason for his alarmed reaction to the first Sputnik news.

In an effort to speed things up, Lefschetz got in touch with officials of the Martin Co., the aircraft manufacturing firm which had set up RIAS in 1954 as an independent agency dedicated to basic research.

Housed in a 42-room brick mansion in the hills north of Baltimore, it is the headquarters of about 80 scientists working in a freedom unknown to most industrial or university laboratories.

They probe such mysteries as how plants convert the sun's light into energy and store it for centuries in the form of coal and petroleum; the cell structure of molecules; equations describing the movements of the earth and everything on it.

When Lefschetz approached Rias officials, the institute had no mathematics branch and only two men were working there on nonlinear equations.

Now, two years later, naerly 20 advanced mathematicians are at Rias, all concentrating on the equations.

They are consulted regularly by the top engineers on some of the nation's most important defense work and already have made significant contributions to these projects. The government now finances about half the Rias budget.

The Rias mathematics branch itself, biggest of its kind outside the Iron Curtain, has become a clearing house of ideas and a reference center for scientists from throughout the free world.

Lefschetz feels that the work at Rias has helped impress some U.S. engineers with the importance of the equations. But he feels the awareness still is not as pronounced as it should be among some government officials.

SAVING FROM SCRAP

MECHANICSBURG, Pa. (AP)— The U. S. Navy reports it's anything but down in the mouth about the results of a scheme to salvage scraps, sweepings and discard items from its dental laboratories.

Operating under the theory that gold is where you find it, the Navy undertakes a regular collection of old crowns, bridges, fillings and dentures as well as dust and grindings from dental lab work.

The products of this broomstick prospecting are shipped from Pennsylvania and Maryland dental labs to the Mechanicsburg Naval Supply Depot.

The result when the "waste" is melted down every year or so, says disposal officer Lt. H. R. Davis: over $15,000 in gold and silver.

EVERYBODY WINS—With a grand prize of fun for all, 5,013 won in the drawing for $150,000 in prizes in a nation-wide women's daytime bowling contest. Many new women were introduced to the sport as shown by these scenes in New York, St. Louis and Los Angeles.

At the Gonzalez y Byass winery in Jerez de la Frontera, this mouse who lives under one of the barrels likes to sip the fragrant Andalusia sherry. If You Want A Haunted House Hunt One Where Poltergeist Keeps Things Jumping

By JOY MILLER
Associated Press Writer

If your house has to be haunted, and you have any choice of ghosts, by all means pick a poltergeist.

This prankish ghost is the extrovert of the spirit world. It may toss your furniture around, keep your nerves on edge waiting for the next cup to float through the air, drop lighted matches from your ceiling.

But it won't stay long—a couple of months at most—and it won't hurt you, except maybe for a playful pinch.

In Baltimore a three-generation family, including a teen - age grandson, reported flying sugar bowls, falling glassware and exploding bottles.

An elderly couple, with a visiting 16-year-old grandson, said objects flew across rooms, a davenport and refrigerator overturned and tumblers jumped off shelves at their farm home near Guttenberg, Iowa.

Maybe, though, the fun of all the entertaining will make up for the extra work. There's no doubt you'll have company.

Firemen, police, utility men, plumbers, homebuilders, men with all kinds of detecting apparatus, reporters, photographers, spiritualistic mediums, college professors, strangers with surefire remedies remembered from the old country, people who offer to exorcise the spirit for a small fee, both real and would-be authorities on poltergeists and the just plain curious all will come trooping to your door.

In fact, if you charged admission you could probably replace all the dishes and bric a brac likely to get broken, either by the ghost or the guests.

"You really get worn out, with people constantly coming and going, and with all the phone calls," recalls Mrs. James M. Hermann of Seaford, Long Island, N. Y.

In February, two years ago, the Herrmann family, which included Jimmy, 12, and Lucille, 14, was dedevilled by popping bottles and flying objects in one of the most publicized poltergeist cases in recent years.

The Herrmanns received letters from all over the world offering theories that ranged from spacemen to the devil at work, a restless spirit, and psychokinesis—movement of an object by mental rather than physical, means. Mr. Herrmann favored electro-magnetic forces.

His wife says now: "I don't think there is any definite solution. It was just one of those things, with no rhyme or reason to it. But there was a definite physical force behind it. You should have seen the dent in the secretary where the figurine flew through the air and hit it. And the figurine exploded into a million splinters. Nobody was in the room when it happened. But I don't believe it was a poltergeist. I still say: 'If it's a poltergeist, you'll have to show it to me.'"

One of the scientific investigators in the Herrmann case was Dr. Nandor Fodor, a New York psychoanalyst and a pioneer in taking poltergeist phenomena out of the spirit world and into the psychological field. For nearly 40 years he has been interested in psychical research, and his latest book on the subject, "The Haunted Mind," has just been published by Helix Press.

Dr. Fodor explains this viewpoint: "the belief is that, in order to make contact with objects, such as dishes or knickknacks, and project its 'spirit' energies, the entity must work through a living person—a medium. Since many of these cases (although not all) have centered about young boys and girls, it has been suggested that adolescents are in a particularly vulnerable or 'sensitive' state."

The parapsychologists theorized in the Herrmann case that the source of the invisible power which moved objects about the house was psychic, unconsciously operating through the boy.

Dr. Fodor says: "since poltergeist phenomena are usually associated with a boy or girl at the pubertal age, it is widely assumed that a side-tracking of the sexual energies in a maturing body may be responsible for the explosive manifestation. The why and how of this psycho-biological disorder is as yet unknown."

He has evolved a "poltergeist psychosis" which he calls "an episodic mental disturbance of schizophrenic character." This means that while the person is in this state, one part of his mind or personality dissociates, and he carries out destructive acts that represent his repressed desires or frustrations. Later, he doesn't remember anything about it.

"On the other hand," muses Dr. Fodor, "my experiences have shown that there are many events—usually at the beginning of the outbreaks—which are extremely hard to explain by completely normal physical laws."

Dr. Fodor hopes we'll get it all figured out someday. So until then hold up all invitations to ghosts, spirits and their ghoulish friends.

Final Day Swells Total Vote To More Than 60,000

From all indications, it will take quite some time to process the deluge of ballots received at the Journal Courier office up to midnight last night.

Initial weighing of the ballots shows that more than 60,000 votes have been cast during the four-week contest to find the "Friendliest, Most Courteous" man and woman employee.

The contest has officially closed. Thousands of ballots must still be sorted and processed before the actual counting begins. The winners will be announced in the special "Saluting the Employees" edition of the Journal Courier in March. From all appearances, it will take that long to count the ballots.

Reader interest during the four-week contest has reached an "all-time high" in Jacksonville and surrounding area. Ballots have come from every town and village within 75 miles of Jacksonville and at least nine different states (including Hawaii).

Numerous letters to the Journal Courier indicate salespeople in downtown Jacksonville have become "more friendly and more courteous" than ever before. For this, we are indeed proud and happy.

Another list of nominees is included in this article. The final list will appear later in the week.

Believe Ike Will Have 3 Homes After Retirement

GETTYBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower may have three or more homes in widely separated sections of the country after he leaves office next January.

His legal residence is almost certain to remain the comfortable place where he and Mrs. Eisenhower are relaxing this weekend—their farm at the edge of the Gettysburg battlefield.

At his estate here, the President takes a deep interest in his livestock and crop operations, now largely run for him by others.

Saturday he spent about an hour inspecting his Aberdeen Angus cattle herd in raw weather and misty rain.

Mrs. Eisenhower is an enthusiastic flower gardener—outdoors in the summer and tending the plants in a small hot-house during the cold months.

But the President is a restless man whose liking for outdoor recreation—golf, fishing, hunting—is likely to continue to take him where the sun is bright and the weather warm.

At his Washington news conference last Wednesday Eisenhower said he is looking ahead, after retirement, to spending some time in the desert, shooting quail in Georgia — and just sitting in a rocking chair.

The desert reference undoubtedly was to Palm Springs, Calif., area where he has vacationed three times and where he is reported to be interested in acquiring property for a winter home.

For seven years in a row now, Eisenhower has gone to south Georgia for a few days to hunt quail. After his last visit three weeks ago, Georgia's Gov. Ernest Vandiver quoted the President as having said that one of his great ambitions was to obtain a preserve of his own in the state.

Learning Art Of Being Wife Of Preacher Can Be Rugged

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

Being a preacher's wife, so they tell, is a delicate art.

But mastering it can be rugged. The women who take on the role today often get some tested tips beforehand.

"A manse marriage is unlike any other," said a partner in one, Mrs. Robert C. Hamlyn, of New York's Grace Church. "A minister's wife has to share her husband continuously, in a personal way, with scores of people."

To cope with that, along with other special factors, requires some wifely resilience and tact. They say it means extra pains and also extra pleasures.

"Loneliness is a part of our life," says Mrs. Powers McLeod, of a Methodist parsonage in Auburn, Ala. "But to me this aspect is lost in the many compensations and joys."

At several seminaries, with the proportion of married students heavily increased, courses recently have been organized for the wives on the fine points of being a clergyman's helpmate.

Forums on the subject in many church areas also have become common. Reason for all this is that a pastor's wife faces distinctive problems.

"Her husband, unlike others, must be dedicated to a wider family than his own," said Mrs. Michael Allen, of St. Mark's, New York. "He is constantly on call, counselling, visiting, shouldering personal problems of others."

Consequently, the wife has more responsibility than usual in maintaining a private home life—and in a situation that at times seems like being in a goldfish bowl.

Out of the seminars, training sessions and articles of advice have come numerous "do's" and "don'ts" that generally are recommended as the best policy for a minister's wife.

These include:

Don't become part of any cliques or show favoritism among members of the congregation. Don't feel obligated to take church offices or leadership duties. Such posts can involve you in difficulties hurting your husband's ministry.

Don't repeat his remarks to others, nor let yourself be used as a go-between to convey opinions to him. Don't be jealous of his many professional contacts with women in the parsonage.

Be willing to live on a limited income. Preserve the privacy of your home. Be sure your husband takes at least one day off a week, undisturbed. Attend church regularly, whether you have no children or 10 of them.

Remember your first duty is as wife, homemaker, mother. Be yourself, not a rubber-stamp for what you think the congregation might want.

Discussing the particular stresses faced by a minister's wife, Mrs. Robert C. Dodds, of Waterbury, Conn., writes in Presbyterian Life:

"She may be on the verge of disintegrating herself, while the man whose shoulder she wants to weep on is off beside a hospital bed or counseling another couple. Or worst of all, he's at a meeting."

Men in most professions, she observes, have become domesticated, tied to homes and wives, but a "minister is part of the dwindling adventurous remnant, and his wife would be the last to want to tame him.

"Having lived with that endlessly giving, tired, driven man, she wants him to continue free to use his time as a trust from God, free to speak out on social issues, even when it makes her tremble, free to be fully a pastor."

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market this week had its first net gain in five weeks as the steep 1960 decline met some resistance.

The light volume—a mere 14,675,209 shares compared with last week's 14,005,490—robbed the recovery of emphasis. The prior week's volume was the lowest in about three months.

Wall Street analysts still awaited a decisive test to show whether the next strong trend would be higher or lower.

The reversal of the January downtrend was regarded by most brokers as purely technical. There were some signs, however, that the tight money situation was easing. U.S. Treasury bonds and corporate bonds staged a nice rally. Their price increases lowered the yield percentage on these fixed income securities and thus narrowed the big spread between the return on stocks and the larger return on bonds and shorter term government obligations.

The Dow Jones industrial average showed a net gain of 4.15 at 626.77.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced $1.60 to $217.30.

Amid reports of easier money, the rally began Monday, which ended in a moderate gain. The Tuesday advance was the second biggest of the year for the AP average and the largest since Nov. 15, 1957, for the Dow Jones industrial average.

Wednesday brought a pretty stiff decline which erased about half of Monday's and Tuesday's gains. The Thursday market was mixed and Friday it was moderately lower.

Most active issue this week on the New York Stock Exchange was American Motors (when-issued), unchanged at 27¾ on 244,200 shares.

Most active on the American Stock Exchange was Webb & Knapp, up ⅛ at 1⅜ on 144,000 shares.

U.S. government and corporate bond markets registered solid advances in moderately active trading.

The rise came as tight money eased a shade and stock market gyrations sent a number of equity investors over into the safer haven of bonds. Major dealers in bankers accpetances will cut their rates by ¼ percentage point across the board Monday.

CHICAGO (AP)—The smallest supply of butcher hogs for any five-day week since October was the major strengthening factor in the market as prices extended their advances through a third successive week.

All butcher grades were 25 cents higher and hit a $14.50 top on Friday, the highest peak since that price was paid last Sept. 11. It was the third week that the top had held at $14.00 or better on every day.

Weight of slaughter steers continued to be an important factor in the cattle market. Buyers paid as much as 50 cents higher for choice and prime grade steers up to 1,350 lbs but all other grades and weights were steady to 50 cents lower.

Supply was in about the same volume as the previous week and percentages of grades were little changed.

The sheep market was steady to strong despite the largest supply for any week since February 1957. More than 14,000 head went on sale but prices were sustained by an improved market for dressed lamb.

GRAINS MAKE SMALL GAINS AFTER MONTH OF LOW PRICES

By GIL MAYO
AP Business News Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — After a month of generally declining grain futures prices, the market this week began to show some signs of having approached or reached the stopping point if not the turning point.

A few small plus signs were sprinkled through the list after most contracts had been scraping around at their lowest levels of the season. It was that fact, actually, more than any bullish developments, which brought out an increased resistance to further selling.

A number of speculative dealers rely on price charts as guides to their activities often swap positions when the market climbs or falls to or near its previous highs or lows.

Experience, they contend, has shown that resistance often stiffens in those areas and prices flatten out for a while or reverse their course unless immediate strong influences are present.

For the past few weeks, the trade for the most part has been adjusting to one long range factor after another without any particular urgency. Thus, the trend has been slowly downward.

Both domestic and export business were at a slow pace all week. Except for soybeans, trade volume was unusually small and price changes limited to small fractions.

Old crop soybeans, however, were under active and general selling pressure at times because of weakness in soybean oil and soybean meal. Soybean oil again slipped to its lowest levels in 19 years as demand for the mounting stocks became negligible.

Soybean meal declined as much as 75 cents a ton for the nearby delivery and that commodity in the cash market was offered on Thursday at its lowest price in more than two months.

Slow movement of wheat out of Chicago discouraged speculation in the nearby contracts and liquidation was persistent throughout the week.

At the end of the week, wheat was 2 cents a bushel lower on the March contract to ½ cent higher on new crop months, March $1.98¾; corn unchanged to ¼ higher, March $1.14¼-⅜; oats 1 cent lower to ⅛ higher, March 75 cents; rye ¼-1 cent lower, March $1.25⅝-½; soybeans 2¼ lower to ¼ higher, March $2.12⅜-½.

Sea Of Galilee Conflict Becomes War Of Words

CAIRO (AP) — The conflict along the Sea of Galilee front eased off Saturday to a war of words, with neither side ready to take the next step toward a settlement.

An official source said the United Arab Republic cannot accept the Israeli proposal for talks on the Syrian frontier incidents as long as Israel refuses to discuss the status of the demilitarized zone.

The Israelis offered to meet the Syrian side to discuss frontier problems but insisted there could be no discussion of the demilitarized zone. Israel claims the demilitarized zone as its territory.

"We are always ready to discuss problems of the armistice within the Mixed Armistice Commission," the U.A.R. source said, "but we cannot accept Israel's condition excluding the demilitarized zone from talks. The whole problem arises directly from things Israel has done inside the demilitarized zone in violation of the armistice."

The official said the Israelis were trying to separate the problem of a cease-fire from that of the demilitarized zone and the two cannot be separated.

The official said the various demilitarized zones were established by the armistice agreement of 1949 and any violations in the zone must be discussed by the Mixed Armistice Commission comprising representatives of Syria, Israel and the United Nations.

22 Cars Jump Tracks, Shear Off Oil Pipeline

CASEY, Ill. (AP)— Twenty-two cars of an 105-car Pennsylvania Railroad freight left the rails near here Saturday, ripping up ¼ mile of track and shearing a 12-inch crude oil pipeline feeding a big, nearby tank farm.

There was danger of fire from an estimated 2,000 to 3,000 barrels of crude oil that poured through the break about ¼ of a mile from the Ohio Oil Co. tank farm.

Spectators were kept at a safe distance.

Employes of the oil firm set fire to some of the crude oil, to cut down the danger from an uncontrolled blaze.

Lines of highly flammable butane gas are located near the wreck scene.

The derailment occurred on the east-bound track of the Pennsy's double line between St. Louis and Indianapolis.

A railroad spokesman here said both east and westbound service was disrupted for about six hours.

Later in the day, both east and westbound trains were detoured around the wreck on westbound tracks.

Two passenger trains, the Spirit of St. Louis and Penn-Texas, were delayed about two hours.

Firemen said a railroad tank car carrying cleaning fluid was ruptured and the fluid spilled into a ditch paralleling the tank farm.

However, a spokesman for the railroad in Indianapolis identified the fluid as styrene, a plastic base that is not inflammable.

The derailment occurred about four miles east of this eastern Illinois community, while the freight reportedly was traveling at 50 miles per hour.

The railroad said the derailment was caused by a burned out hot box on one of the cars. The extreme heat sheared an axle, sending the car spinning off the tracks. The others, in the middle of the long freight, followed. A small fire broke out, but firemen said it was extinguished quickly.

Most of the cars were carrying carrots.

Luncheon Honors 50 Boy Scouts From 50 States

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fifty Boy Scouts from the nation's 50 states Saturday observed the 50th anniversary of scouting at a luncheon sponsored by Amvets.

Each scout received a 50-star American flag for his home troop from the Amvets National Service Foundation. The presentation was made by Harold T. Berc, Chicago attorney, national commander of Amvets.

Berc commended the 50 boys on their individual records of achievements, which led to their selection from the nation's five million scouts to visit Washington during 1960 Boy Scout Week. It coincides with the 50th anniversary of scouting.

The 50 boys are all scouts or explorers of eagle rank. They include Dennis W. Gorman Jr., 1036 Monroe St., Quincy, Ill.

MAILMAN'S HIDDEN ENEMY

DETROIT (AP)—There wasn't a dog in sight when mailman Lorne Winbigler, 23, walked up on the porch of a house in suburban Mount Clemens Friday.

But as Winbigler was dropping the mail through a slot in the front door he became the victim of a sneak attack.

A terrier named Tinker was waiting inside the house for the mail carrier's fingers to pop through the slot. When they appeared, Tinker grabbed hold with her teeth.

Winbigler was given a tetanus shot at a hospital and returned to his route—wearing gloves.

ILLINOIS ATTRACTS 11,250,000 VACATIONERS

Herter Holds Secret Talks On Disarmament

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter held a Saturday conference on disarmament with military, diplomatic and intelligence experts.

Although the meeting was secret, indications were that the discussion covered plans for the next step in East-West negotiations at Geneva on a nuclear test ban, and Western policy preparations for broad-scale disarmament talks with the Soviet bloc starting March 15.

The two projects are closely related. The nuclear powers consider that an agreement to prohibit nuclear weapons testing under an international inspector system would greatly advance the prospects for other disarmament measures. Conversely, a breakdown in the test talks would darken the chances for broader arms control pacts.

Herter and President Eisenhower are reported to have decided about two weeks ago that the United States would propose in the test negotiations that Britain and the Soviet Union join in seeking a limited test ban on the ground that it now appears impossible to get agreement on an inspection system which could effectively police the less powerful underground nuclear explosions.

Britain is reported to have agreed to go along with the U.S. proposal to seek a limited rather than total prohibition but the Soviet spokesman at Geneva rejected the whole idea even before it was presented.

Officials present at Saturday's meeting with Herter included Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency; Dr. George B. Kistiakowsky, Eisenhower's science adviser; John F. Floberg, member of the Atomic Energy Commission; John N. Irwin II, assistant secretary of defense for international affairs; Ambassador Frederick M. Eaton, U.S. negotiator for the March disarmament talks; and Philip J. Farley, Herter's special adviser on disarmament and atomic matters.

State Department officials, who were reluctant even to acknowledge that the meeting was held, declined to define the range of topics covered although the presence of Eaton and Farley made it clear that the major focus was on disarmament.

Will Mr. K's Visit To India Reveal Red Party Row?

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Diplomats hope Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit to India next week will uncover answers to this riddle: Have the Soviet Union and Red China run into serious differences?

Many diplomatic observers in New Delhi believe the answer may be yes.

Khrushchev arrives Thursday in New Delhi, first stop on a tour of India, Burma and Indonesia, all of whom have quarreled with Red China. He also will stop in Afghanistan on his return trip.

Since Red China suppressed last year's rebellion in Tibet and seized about 50,000 square miles of territory India claims India has developed widely divergent attitudes toward the Soviet Union and Communist China. Many Indians look upon the Chinese as bad, the Soviets as good.

This attitude has been encouraged by Prime Minister Nehru, who repeatedly has declared there is no country more interested in preserving peace than the Soviet Union and none more reckless with peace than Red China.

The Kremlin's own attitude has encouraged a feeling in India that Khrushchev may influence the Chinese to stop being bad. Privately, Khrushchev has been quoted as saying the Chinese are behaving stupidly. Publicly, he has termed the quarrel a misunderstanding.

Diplomats are asking: Has Khrushchev held aloof from the dispute because he felt it was a misunderstanding? Or, as implied by many Indian officials, is this a way of displaying anger over Red China's aggressiveness at a time when the Kremlin is stressing coexistence, disarmament and summit conferences?

Nehru and Khrushchev meet Thursday afternoon before Khrushchev addresses Parliament. Friday morning and Saturday afternoon also are free for conversations.

OLD STORY — NEW SEASONING

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A former Army private, now a Coffeyville, Kan., civilian, added new seasoning to an old story today.

He wrote to the cook at Brooke Army Medical Training Center's Mess Hall No. 3, where he used to eat. He asked for a week's menu, adding:

"I want to show my wife, and maybe I can get her to cook a man-size meal."

A Brooke spokesman identified the ex-private as Roy L. Hammond. His letter was addressed to "Head Cook in Charge, Mess Hall No. 3."

He will get his menu.

Touring Russians Land In Chicago For 2-Day Visit

CHICAGO (AP)—Thirty-one touring Russians flew into Chicago behind schedule Saturday and without pausing for rest immediately began an afternoon and evening round of activities.

The group, all Soviet government officials, came here from Florida for a two-day visit in Illinois.

Their big plane touched down at Midway Airport an hour late. Awaiting their arrival was a group of Hungarians carrying signs denouncing the visitors and condemning Russia for acts against Hungary in the 1956 uprising there.

A police guard at the airport kept the demonstration in hand and there was no trouble.

Downtown the Russians climbed out of limousines in front of the Conrad Hilton Hotel and into a big sightseeing bus for a quick tour of the Museum of Science and Industry, the Illinois State Psychiatric Institute and a housing project.

Saturday the Russians were to be guests of the Council of State Governments at a dinner in the Sheraton-Blackstone Hotel.

Sunday they will entrain for Springfield to meet Gov. Stratton and visit the Abraham Lincoln shrine and tour a farm.

In Florida, the group held an informal meeting with Gov. Leroy Collins and were guests Friday night at a banquet at the University of Florida in Gainesville.

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—An explosion and fire in a northwest Wichita home Saturday night killed six persons and injured four others, police said.

Police Lt. Clyde Bevis said the blast occurred while two men were cleaning automobile parts with gasoline in the second-floor apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Galloway.

Bevis said the dead were:

Benjamin Blair, 28; three of his sons, Danny, 9, Stephen, 6, and Keith, 5; and two Galloway children, Larry 11, and Jo Etta, 22 months.

Hospitalized were Blair's wife, Jean; their daughter, Cheryl, 2; Galloway and his wife, Alice, 29.

Cheryl Blair was reported in critical condition with a skull fracture.

Dennis Edwards, 27, first fireman to enter the flaming house, climbed a ladder into a bedroom but was overcome by smoke.

FAN BREEZES

Journal Courier Sports Editor

Coach John Chapman, who has set a Regional record at JHS by winning the state elemination crown nine of his last ten years, set a personal mark this weekend and it's one he'd like to shed as well as the flu. John missed the Bethalto game Friday and also the Peoria Central contest last night. It was the first time in his 11 seasons that he's missed any games because of illness. He missed one other game in 1952 due to a death in the family.

— S —

'Chatters' was feeling a shade better Saturday although he hasn't eaten much since Wednesday. John said it was the first time he has heard Barney Lewis and Jerry Cassens broadcast a JHS contest although he's heard several tapes but never a live JHS broadcast. From all indications John may have learned something on the living room couch this weekend that will aid the Crimsons in the future. It's not for me to discuss and I'm sure John wouldn't want anything said about it until he decides whether to put his plan in operation or not. Chapman said he hopes to return to school Monday if he can shake the bug by then. He doesn't want to have any after effects during the regional tournament.

Coach Tom Carmody has done a wonderful job of making wrestling a big-time program at Jacksonville High and he'll do even better in building the program in the future. A problem other than winning or losing confronts a wrestling coach whereas it doesn't matter too much in football, basketball and baseball. Before each match, Tom weighs his boys in the night before and if they're several pounds over their weight class, they are sent to the sweating room to get the extra pounds off. This is one of the biggest problems in wrestling. In case you're wondering why the wrestling team leaves so early for a match, there is only one explanation.

— S —

For instance, weigh in time Saturday for the Capitol Conference tournament was between eight and ten o'clock a.m. The Crimsons left for Decatur at seven a.m. and this would have put them in Decatur around nine or 9:15. In case a boy has put on those extra pounds overnight for his class, then Tom has a chance to sweat them off before weigh-in closes. The Crimsons have had a fine season and should do even better next season as most of the squad members are back for another go. Jack Watkins, the undefeated freshman in 15 starts before his loss in Saturday's finals, was a pound overweight Friday but he swears that he'll be grappling in the 95 pound class again next year. Tom seemed doubtful about the poundage but he's sold on the boy's determination. Jack went into the tourney with 14 straight wins and pinned Ralph Connard of Eisenhower in his first conference match in 3:05 but dropped his first verdict of the season in the finals to Monty Green of Feitshans in an overtime referee's decision.

The Meredosia-Chambersburg District Tournament will run for three nights, February 24, 25 and 26, starting Wednesday and ending Friday in the Chambersburg gymnasium. Wednesday finds St. Mary's of Mt. Sterling playing Perry at 7:00 and East Pike playing the host school at 8:30. Thursday, Bluffs plays the winner of the St. Mary's-Perry contest at 7:00 and Industry meets the East Pike-Meredosia Chambersburg winner at 8:30. The two winners play for the trip to the Beardstown regional starting at 8:00 p.m. Friday. The Bluffs express should meet Beardstown in the second game of that Regional March 1.

Edwards Leads ISD To 66-56 Win Over Wisconsin

After getting off to a slow start, the ISD Tigers went on to take a contest with the Wisconsin School for the Deaf Saturday night as Louis Edwards paced the Tigers with 18 points for the evening and high of the game.

In the early minutes of the game the Hilltoppers challenged ISD as they tied the game up with 2 minutes gone in the first quarter, 4-4, but as the stanza progressed the Tigers put away 13 more points to put the score at the end of the first quarter at 17-7.

With the opening of the second quarter the Tigers slowed down and the visitors settled down and started hitting from outside. Midway in the quarter the Hilltoppers made a bid for the lead and came to within 5 points of the ISD standing, and the half rolled around with a 7 point deficit being awarded to the Wisconsin five.

As the second half opened the Wisconsin drive dropped off and the Tigers surged ahead to open up a lead as Edwards dropped in 12 of his 18 total points through in this quarter to pace ISD. The Hilltoppers scored the first bucket of the quarter and came to within 5 points of the lead, but after the first minute it was ISD all the way.

In the final session of play the Wisconsin five put up a gallant fight to overtake the Tigers and outscored the host five by 10 points, but ran out of time as the buzzer sounded to give the Tigers victory number 11 for the season, over 7 losses.

The Hilltoppers had even scoring as 4 of the first five men made the double figure column, with Rabiola hitting the high of 16 for the losers' effort.

Illinois College Slips By Blackburn, 67-65

CARLINVILLE — The Illinois College Blueboys won their third game in a row Saturday night as they defeated the Blackburn five by a close 67-65 score.

The Blueboys led the game all the way and had as much as a 12 point lead in the game. Blackburn came as close as 1 point in the last three minutes, but were never able to tie the game up. Two charity tosses by Dawdy in the final seconds of play gave the Blueboys a sure victory.

Percentage wise, the Blackburn five outshot the Blueboys as the hosts shot 42% and IC 38%. Bill Schildman was the offensive standout for the visitors with 25 points. The victory now gives the Blueboys a 6-3 record in Prairie College Conference play, while Blackburn now has a 1-6 record.

MacMurray Posts 89-70 Victory At Kansas City

KANSAS CITY — Coach Bill Wall's Highlanders displayed a complete reversal of their poor showing Friday night with a much improved 89-70 triumph over Kansas City University Saturday night for their 11th decision against five defeats.

The first half was a ragged affair with each team testing the other's defense. KCU shot over MacMurray's zone and the Highlanders scored repeatedly on fast breaks as the teams traded basket for basket. The host five trailed at the half, 39-36.

It was a different story in the second half. The Highlanders came out of their zone and applied a mid-court press, which rattled Kansas. In six minutes of play, MacMurray had outscored its opponent, 16-2, to garner a 55-38 spread.

MacMurray kept gradually pulling away and Wall sent in a fresh five with five minutes to play. With two minutes left, Kansas City was down by 15, 87-62.

Balanced scoring from Roy Hahnfeld, Ron McCarty, Ron Price, Marv Hohenberger and Gary Little plus a team victory on defensive press led to Kansas City University's 11th defeat in 20 starts.

Virginia Beats Meredosia, 58-49

MEREDOSIA — Virginia won over Meredosia Saturday night as they downed the Indians by a 58-49 score. The Redbirds were able to secure the lead early in the game and were never seriously challenged throughout the game.

Rich Walter paced the Redbirds with 23 points via 10 field shots and 3 charity tosses as they took a 14 point lead at the half, 34-20, and went on to win the game by a 9 point margin, 58-49.

Silver Spoon Survives Inquiry To Win $57,900

By PATRICK McNULTY

Associated Press Sports Writer

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—C. V. Whitney's smooth-striding Silver Spoon, carrying a burdensome 130 pounds, Saturday survived an inquiry and won the $57,900 Santa Margarita Handicap, traditional filly and mare championship at Santa Anita, by one and three-quarters lengths.

Results were held up for several minutes after jockey Milo Valenzuela, aboard the second place Indian Maid complained that Silver Spoon had shut him off by lugging into the rail in the drive for the wire. The Santa Anita Park stewards disallowed the claim after viewing the films.

Palmer Leads Pack Into Finals At Palm Springs

By BOB MYERS

Associated Press Sports Writer

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Johnny Palmer, a professional to fear in any tournament in the 1940's, gave the younger generation another lesson in golf Saturday and leads the pack into the final round of the $100,000 Palm Springs Desert Classic.

The gentleman from Dixie, now 41 and since 1955 a club professional in Tulsa, shot a 6-under par 66, his fourth straight sub-par round, for a 72-hole total of 272. He played the Bermuda Dunes Dunes Country Club course.

The 90-hole circus, played over four courses for four days, goes into the final 18 holes Sunday at the par 36-35—71 Thunderbird Country Club.

Palmer, in quest of the $12,000 top money, held a one-stroke lead over another Palmer, young Arnold, no relation, from Ligonier, Pa., who also had a 66, registered on the Thunderbird course.

The pace setter through the last two rounds, Wes Ellis Jr., a Texan now from West Caldwell, N.J., slipped well back with a 74 for 278.

In the pro-amateur competition —each pro played in a foursome with three amateurs for 72 holes —former National Open champion Jack Fleck and veteran Jim Turnesa led their team to a tie. They had a best ball score of 230 and the two pros split a $4,300 pot.

In the pro competition, three were tied at 274 — John McMullin and Bob Goalby, with 68's, and Bill Johnston with a 67.

Tommy Bolt was the big name in the 276 bracket. Bolt set a course competitive record of 31-32—63 for the new Indiana Wells par 36-36—72 course. It beat a 64 Johnny Bulla shot there in the 1959 Southern California Open.

Tied with Bolt were Fleck, Tommy Jacobs and Fred Hawkins.

Jack Buurke Jr., Ken Venturi and Al Besselink shared the 277 honors. Tied at 278 were Ellis, Gene Littler, Dutch Harrison and Stan Leonard.

National Open champion Billy Casper Jr., with his second 68 in a row; Doug Ford, Billy Maxwell and Paul Harney were tied at 279.

Scores of 288 and under qualified as the field was trimmed to 60 and ties for the final round.

Joe Campbell, the New York youngster who shot a hole in ine Friday, and took a stout stake on the $50,000 prize put up by the tournament, shot a 72 for 283. Campbell has to split the sum with a golfing pal, Buddy Sullivan, and perhaps with a friendly sponsor who is backing his tour. But unless another pro shoots an ace, he gets the full amount.

TIED WOLFPACK MARK

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — When Claude Gibson, a junior, caught six passes for North Carolina State against UCLA he tied a school record. John Zubaty of the Wolfpack caught six forwards against Pitt in 1952.

Jared Nourse and Cary Weisiger of Duke finished in a dead heat for the Atlantic Coast Conference cross country crown. The run was held on Duke's golf course.

Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers led the National League in hitting batters last season. He plunked 18.

Ernie Banks of the Cubs, Don Hoak of the Pirates and Vada Pinson of the Redlegs appeared in all their teams' games last season.

JHS Defense Folds In Third Quarter As Lions Rally For Win

Jacksonville High's defense began to collapse in the third quarter and Peoria Central streaked from behind to register a 73-58 win over the Crimsons Saturday night at the JHS Bowl.

The Jacks stayed on even terms with the Lions in the third period but if they could have contained forward Rich Hermann they may have collected their third victory instead of their 13th defeat.

Hermann hit 12 points in the deciding period on five field goals all within range of eight foot and this hurt the Crimsons. Peoria Central had battled back from a 34-28 halftime deficit and before the Lions could get the lead to stay, the score was tied four times. With 47 seconds left to play in the third stanza, Jay McCormick collected his only field goal of the game to offset Jacksonville's 47-46 lead and the visitors were in front to stay.

The Lions steadily pulled away in the fourth quarter with control of the boards and JHS never threatened the closing eight minutes. The win was the eighth against 10 losses for Peoria High.

Peoria Central led all of the first quarter after building up a 14-7 lead but then the Lions cooled off in the final two minutes and the Crimsons caught up on Gary Spangenberg's tally just as the horn sounded for a 14-14 tie.

With guard Tom Christison's four clutch buckets in the second canto, the Crimsons maintained anywhere from a one to four point lead until they went ahead by six, 24-18, with 4:19 left on Christison's bucket from the side. JHS led by six at halftime, 34-28.

Gary Spangenberg's 21 markers paced Crimson scorers and his scoring was divided with three field goals in the initial chapter and three more in the final quarter. John Bourn and Christison shared second place laurels with 10 each.

Hermann's 26 tallies provided Peoria Central with its scoring spark.

Winchester Captures JHS Frosh Tournament

Jacksonville bowed to the Winchester Wildcats in the championship game of the 7th Annual Frosh Tournament held in the Turner Jr. High gym Saturday night, as the Winchester five outshot the Crimsons from the free throw line to give them the game.

The Crimsons enjoyed the lead only once early in the first quarter as they slid ahead 12-11. With Smith, Skipworth and Massey fouling out early in the second half, the Wildcats were able to maintain an 8 to 10 point lead for most of the game. This was the first win for the Winchester team in championship play, although the Wildcats won out over the Jacksonville Frosh earlier in the season by 21 points.

Both teams played a very good game, but heads up ball and constant hustling paid off as the Jacksonville five went down to a 56-44 defeat.

The honors for high point man was split between Yates of the Crimsons and Alan Hudson of the Winchester team as both men collected 17 tallies. Yates was the only man able to hit double figures for Jacksonville, but the Wildcats had four men in the double figure column as Hudson got 17, Wilson 12, Watt 11, and Savage 10.

In the consolation game the Havana five outscored Rushville to take a slim 65-63 victory. Offensive standout of the game was Wells of Rushville who collected 34 points on 17 field shots. Conklin hit 27 to pace the Ducks.

Afternoon Session

Jacksonville High's freshmen defeated Rushville, 67-52, and Winchester routed Havana, 70-43, Saturday in the afternoon session of the seventh annual JHS Freshmen Tournament at the JHS Bowl.

Jacksonville came from a six point deficit to send the Rushville five into the consolation bracket. Al Smith and Ron Yates paced the victors with 17 and 11 points respectively, but the high man of the game was in Wells of Rushville with 18 tallies.

Winchester started off strong in the early minutes of the game and kept rolling as they downed Havana without any serious threat coming from the Ducks. Wilson and Sipes paced the victors with 16 and 13 respectively, and Wilson tied with Havana's Conklin for high scoring honors of the game, each collecting 16.

Big O Hits 29 Points To Set Scoring Mark Against Houston, 67-55

CINCINNATI (AP)—Oscar Robertson Saturday night became major college basketball's highest all-time scorer, but his University of Cincinnati Bearcats teammates sorely needed all of his 29 points to beat a stubborn University of Houston team 67-55. Cincinnati is rated No. 1 in the nation.

Robertson, the lithe Negro from Indianapolis, ran his total points over 76 games to an even 2,600 points in less than three seasons of collegiate competition.

The previous record of 2,587 was set by Dickie Hemric of Wake Forest in four seasons and 104 games, ending in 1955.

Robertson broke the three-year record earlier this week in a game against Drake.

It was only in the last three or four minutes that the Bearcats were able to pull away for their 17th victory in 18 games.

Robertson and Paul Hogue, a 6-foot-9 sophomore, killed off the Cougars in those dying minutes of the game.

Hogue sat out a big part of the last period after accumulating four personal fouls.

Cincinnati held only a slim 34-33 lead at the half. That was due largely to a scoring spree by Robertson, aided by Bob Weisenhahn who has been out of Cincinnati games for several weeks with a broken foot.

Robertson set his scoring record shortly after the second half started. He had 16 points in the first half and a field goal shot him into the all-time scoring record, and at the same time eased a tight Cincinnati situation by giving the Bearcats a 40-37 lead.

End Search For Men Missing For Four Years

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Police have ended the underground probe along a highway for clues to the fate of three men who vanished nearly four years ago.

"Investigators have convinced themselves that the car is not under the Tarrant-Pinson road," said Public Safety Director Floyd Mann.

Highway crews operating a four inch drill worked for two weeks boring holes in the roadbed of Alabama 79 about 10 miles north of here.

Police Chief Thomas Ward of suburban Fairfield touched off the search when he said an informant told him the men were slain and their car, with the bodies inside, was buried beneath the road.

That portion of the highway was under construction at the time. Robert Dye, 23, his brother, Billy Dye, 19, and their cousin, Dan Brasher, 28, disappeared on March 4, 1956.

Former Michigan State basketball star Rickey Ayala manages the Kirwood General Hospital in Detroit.

Illini Deal Michigan 6th Straight Defeat

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Illinois broke a 57-57 tie with 13 consecutive points late in the game and went on to whip Michigan, 75-61, in a Big Ten basketball game here Saturday night.

The loss was the sixth straight for the Wolverines in conference play, and dropped them into a last-place tie with Wisconsin. The triumph gave Illinois a 4-2 Big Ten mark and undisputed second-place in league standings behind Ohio State.

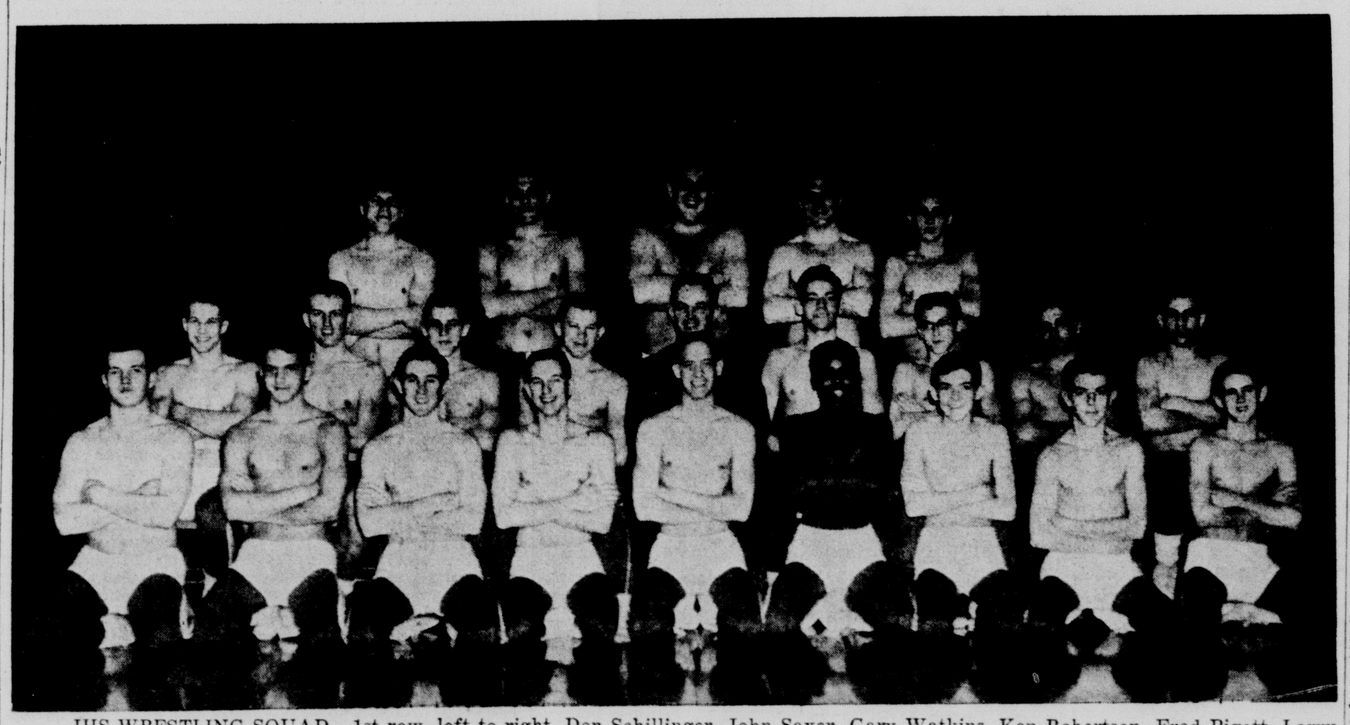

After Michigan grabbed a 35-32 halftime edge, Illinois—using pressing tactics and balanced scoring —moved into a 48-48 tie midway in the second half. Both teams traded baskets for the next several minutes to make the score 57-57.

Then Illinois clicked off five baskets and three free throws while holding Michigan scoreless to break the game wide open.

Govoner Vaughn topped the Illini scoring with 21 points.

Illinois made 32 of 86 shots from the floor for a 47.1 percentage, while the Wolverines connected on 23 of 72 shots for a 32 per cent mark.

Crimsons Place 2nd In Capitol Conference Tourney

Third row: Harold Willner, Jim Siegrist, Perry Roberts, Tom Long and Tom Ferry.

Lanphier, Jacksonville, Feitshans and Eisenhower finished in that order at Decatur Saturday in the first Capitol Conference Wrestling Tournament at Eisenhower High. Team scoring was Lanphier, 101; Jacksonville, 93; Feitshans, 76; and Eisenhower, 59.

Individual champions for Jacksonville were Dale Bernahl, Don Schillinger and Perry Roberts. Jack Watkins lost a tough decision in the 95 pound class. After winning his first match, Watkins wrestled Green of Feitshans to a draw, 4-4. To settle the class winner, an overtime was required which saw both boys still even. The referee then gave his decision to the Feitshans lad and Watkins was stopped for the first time in 16 bouts.

Bradley Wallops North Texas

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Bradley, the nation's No. 2 team, walloped North Texas State 101-61 Saturday night to remain in a first place tie with Cincinnati in the Missouri Valley Conference basketball race.

The Braves had little trouble in rolling up their 11th straight victory and their 17th in 18 games this season. They pounded out a 51-22 halftime lead and coasted home with the substitutes taking over in the second half.

Coach Chuck Orsborn used every man on the squad except for Capt. Mike Owens who has sore feet.

Except for senior Bobby Jee Mason who was appearing in his last game for the Braves, Orsborn benched all of his starters after the first half.

Al Saunders led the Braves with 19 points — all coming in the first half and Mason was second with 16. Mason played all but the last two minutes as Bradley used 17 men.

Kelly Says 24 Hours Doesn't Change His Mind

DETROIT (AP) — Red Kelly, star defenseman of the Detroit Red Wings, said Saturday 24 hours of thinking it over hadn't changed his mind about quitting hockey rather than be traded.

Detroit forward Billy McNeill also said he was sticking to his decision to quit the National Hockey League with Kelly rather than report with him to the New York Rangers.

The two were traded in a straight swap for Bill Gadsby and Eddie Shank Thursday night. The deal was called off when it was learned the Detroiters balked at leaving the Wings.

Kelly said NHL President Clarence Campbell had telephoned him again Saturday.

Campbell said Friday after his first talk with Kelly that if the two Detroiters stuck to their decisions they would be placed on waivers. He gave them 24 hours to think things over. The 24-hour deadline passed without any official action taken.

Fitton Captures Palm Beach Title

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—An Ohio school teacher who never won a major golf tournament upset the veteran Mary Ann Downey 1-up Saturday to take the women's championship of Palm Beach title.

Mrs. Barbara Fitton, 26-year-old physical education instructor at a Hamilton, Ohio, junior high school, had a see-saw battle with her Baltimore opponent.

Neither was more than 2 up at any time and Mrs. Fitton trailed by one hole at one point.

Miss Downey, who has tried for 10 years to win the title, apparently scuttled her chances when she three-putted four greens.

The Chicago White Sox have finished above .500 the last nine seasons.

Sun Warms Ski Slopes Up At Squaw Valley

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—Brilliant sunshine sent temperatures at this Olympic Games site into the 50s Saturday as foreign ski contingents took their first runs down the mountains.

Skiers termed the weather ideal but the warmth caused problems for the skaters.

The soft ice caused one spill. While Ray and Ila Ray Hadley of Seattle were practicing their pair skating, Ray tripped on soft ice holding Ila aloft and both went down. Ila Ray had a skinned knee but other than that neither was injured.

French and Italian Alpine skiers went onto Papoose Peak for slalom training. They flagged out their own courses for the serpentine runs because official tracks have not been opened.

British, Japanese, East Germans and Russians may be on the hills Sunday.

Snow removal operations were under way on the speed skating rink causing postponement of races by the United States team.

Finsterwald Leads The Tour In Official Money

DUNEDIN, Fla (AP)—Dow Finsterwald leads the Professional Golfers' Assn. 1960 winter tour in official money earned and seems bent on taking home the Ryder Cup and maybe the Vardon Trophy.

The 30-year - old winner of the 1960 Los Angeles Open has earned $6,487.50 in the first month of the tour.

Finsterwald, who plays out of Tequesta, Fla., also leads the top tourney performance standings with 241 points. Julius Boros of Southern Pines, N.C., has 231.50 and Bob Goalby of Crystal River, Fla., 218. Bill Casper Jr., of Apple Valley, Calif., is fourth with 214.

State's Big Four Turn In New Wins

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Collinsville, Galesburg, Pinckneyville and Ottawa — currently the Big Four in Illinois high school basketball downstate — turned in new triumphs Friday.

With time running out in the campaign that is a curtain-raiser to rivalry in the state title eliminations, all of these outfits have been beaten only once.

In upsets Friday, highly ranked Peoria Richwoods and Litchfield lost the third time.

Collinsville banged in the most points of the Big Four while turning back Belleville 73-59 for an 18th victory. Top-ranked Ottawa reversed Dixon 71-48, spoiling a 10-game win streak.

Galesburg beat Monmouth for the second time, but by a narrower margin, 65-55. Pinckneyville had trouble with Chester in their second meeting, winning 43-39 compared with a 96-56 victory recently.

Rock Island, kingpin in the Northwestern League embracing Iowa teams, won over Clinton, Iowa, 57-50. Moline and East Moline also won against Iowans. Erie beat Mount Carroll 94-68.

Twice-beaten Proviso East, Decatur and Kankakee won anew. Proviso whipped Highland Park again 58-51, Decatur came back from a loss to Springfield to nudge out Champaign 65-64 and Kankakee powered past Thornton of Harvey 62-48. Springfield overwhelmed Urbana 67-36.

East Peoria was insurmountable for Richwoods in a 63-57 upset and Litchfield, the team that nicked Collinsville, was surprised by Greenville 57-46.

In the same category, La Salle-Peru, the outfit that spoiled Ottawa's perfect record while stretching a win streak to six straight, lost to Freeport 58-57 in two overtimes.

Danville Schlarman retained its winning touch, 66-42, against Paris. Waukegan was untroubled by Evanston 59-39.

But Argo stumbled again, against Bloom of Chicago Heights 63-48.

Geneva put another nail in the Little Seven Conference flag by pounding Belvidere 71-42 and Sycamore helped by edging past West Chicago 72-69.

East Rockford tripped over West Rockford 75-68 in the hot Big Eight race while Elgin needed an overtime to subdue West Aurora 41-38.

Granite City polished up its respectable showing in the Southwestern area by whipping East St. Louis 70-63.

Bridgeport's share of the North Egypt Conference title was assured with another high-scoring output, 89-70, over Fairfield. Bridgeport has not had a title in 32 years.

Hutsonville suffered its second loss, 47-44, to Oblong.

West Frankfort's bid for undisputed first place in the South Seven was damaged as Mount Vernon smacked the Red Birds 65-42. Defending champion Herrin downed Benton 59-40.

Besides the Richwoods upset, Peoria area fans saw surging Peoria Manual stop Pekin 61-58.

In West Central Illinois, Carthage beat Warsaw 78-67 and Macomb powered over Havana 77-48.

DOESN'T LIKE GIRLS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The dean of Japan's amateur wrestlers Saturday said Americans fall short of being the best wrestlers in the world because of girls, easy living, girls, lack of exercise and girls.

"The Americans could easily be the best," said Ichiro Hatta, here with a 16-man team of collegiate all-stars for a six-week tour. "They have the best facilities, the best food and excellent coaches.

"But they wrestle too much with the girls — too many girl friends and they get married too early."

U. S. wrestlers also seem to be too easy going and ride in cars too much, added Hatta.

Indiana Gains Easy Win Over Wisconsin As Bellamy Gets 32

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Walt Bellamy sank 32 points and swept the boards for Indiana to lead the Hoosiers to a 97-85 Big Ten basketball decision Saturday over outclassed Wisconsin.

Bellamy, a towering 6-10½ junior, scored 21 points in the first half as Indiana rolled up a 50-38 advantage in sending Wisconsin down to its sixth straight conference loss.

Indiana encountered little difficulty and at one time led by 22 points before reserves were used freely.

Bellamy, who retired after the Hoosiers soared far ahead with some six minutes left, picked off 16 rebounds in helping Indiana to its third straight conference victory after three losses.

Capt. Bob Baneson paced the Badgers with 20 points.

Sportsmen's Club To Bring Big Game Hunter Here February 26

When Wallace Taber, internationally known big-game hunter, author and photographer brings his double-feature, all-color program of hunting and fishing to Jacksonville High school auditorium Friday, Feb. 26th, the entire community will see darkest Africa at its brightest.

"Never was the wildlife and native life of little-known Africa so vividly portrayed," a member of the Jacksonville Sportsmen's Club said. "The colorful Coloradoan puts the whole audience within rock-throwing distance of herds of hippo and crowds of crocodile as he pits wits with both to document a heretofore completely unknown sport fishery at the headwaters of the mighty Nile river."

The far-traveled former newspaper reporter spent six months herding a pair of jeeps across Africa's fantastic veldt to record the pair of features which he narrates personally in a style the L.S. Times dubbed "glowing . . . in fact, aflame."

"Fishing in a part of the world where few Americans ever realized there was even fish, Taber tangled tackle with monsters that had never felt the barb of a hook before. His foolhardy exploits put him within ten feet of a calving hippo, than which the Nile produces nothing more dangerous."

Taber causes the audience to laugh as loudly at a diminutive hedgehog as it does when an enraged bull elephant puts him up a tree. He provides front-row-center seats for the whole audience at the primitive, blood-letting rites of the all-but-unknown Karamojan tribe. His elephant watering-hole scenes are little else than a colorful page lifted from Rudyard Kipling's classic Jungle Book.

"Our organization is mighty proud to bring Wallace Taber and his full - evening's program of whole - family entertainment to Jacksonville High school auditortam. "We guarantee the whole audience will talk about the colorful program for months. For Africa was never portrayed more colorfully, closer nor with greater intimacy than this intrepid newspaperman accomplishes."

Advance tickets are available from club members, popularly priced for whole-family attendance at $1 for adults, 50c for students under 16, tax included. On show night tickets, at slightly higher prices, will be available at the high school auditorium box office beginning at 7. Showtime is 8 p.m.

Notre Dame Too Much For Army

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame's basketball team was too strong under the boards for Army and defeated the Cadets 87-55 Saturday in a locally televised game.

Forty-one personal fouls were called in the rugged game, with Army losing two men and the Irish one.

Before fouling out with 6:43 to play, 6-foot-5 Mike Graney of Notre Dame scored 27 points and pulled down 16 rebounds. John Dearie, 6-foot-6 Notre Dame sophomore, added 21 points.

Ron Hannon was high for the Cadets with 13.

The game was close excepting one five minute stretch, the last minute of the first half and first four minutes of the second. Notre Dame outscored Army 16-1 in that interval.

FREE THROW ACE

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP) —York Larese scored 21 straight free throws against Duke in the Dixie Basketball classic but there was a time when the North Carolina star had a better record. At the State Fair three years ago Larese hit on 24 straight tosses. After winning eight teddy bears the manager begged him not to continue.

ONE WAY TO SUCCESS

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Duffy Daugherty, Michigan State's football coach, says he is preparing a couple of freshmen for a special job next fall.

NON-CONTACT SPORT?—Someone should have warned these junior college teams that basketball was a non-contact sport. Members of the Fredrick College of Portsmouth and Wilmington College, N.C., teams might have known, but they forgot . . . for a moment. A free-for-all, with fans joining in, ensued.

District Office For Census Work Opened

Establishment of a district office for the 1960 Census of Population and Housing at 529 Hampshire street, Quincy, was announced Saturday by Director Theodore F. Olson of the Census Bureau's regional office at Chicago, Ill.

Sidney Johnson will be supervisor of the district office. He will direct a force of crew leaders and census takers in the following counties: Adams, Brown, Schuyler, Greene, Calhoun, Jersey, Mason, Menard, Cass, Hancock, McDonough, Morgan, Scott, Pike.

Taking the 1960 Census nationally will require the services of 160,000 enumerators, 10,000 crew leaders and 400 district supervisors, all temporary workers. The district supervisors, working under the general direction of the permanent regional field directors, are responsible for all phases of the census in their districts. Duties of the district supervisor include the recruiting of the crew leaders, obtaining space for crew leader training, recruiting and training a small office staff, reviewing the completed questionnaires, and direct supervision of the field canvass which begins on April 1.

Prior to the start of the census, all households will receive in the mail an Advance Census Report Form, a new census-taking device which is designed to speed up the field canvass and provide more accurate statistics. Distribution of this form, which contains the basic population and housing questions, gives the family a chance to assemble information about each member in advance of the census takers' visit.

Leake Tells History Of Civil War Guns

Walter Leake, Jacksonville firearms enthusiast and collector, told the interesting story of the weapons used during the Civil War—how they were made, where they were made, their capacities and shortcomings—when he addressed the Civil War Round Table at Tanner Library, Illinois College, Friday evening.

He illustrated his spirited and informative discussion by passing around firearms and ammunition actually used by Morgan county soldiers. These specimens were taken from his 600 piece collection which he began when he was 13 years old. Many of his pieces were obtained by gift or purchase from the men who actually used them.

"Any gun made before 1865 could well have been used in the Civil War," Leake said, "as all types in all calibres and sold at all prices were used. But most of the casualties were inflicted by the 58 calibre Springfield musket and the 400 calibre Colt or Remington revolver.

"A Superb Weapon"

"The Civil War was by far the bloodiest of all conflicts in which we Americans have played a role. The 58 calibre Springfield was a superb weapon in the hands of a marksman — and nearly every boy could shoot well in those days. With his musket he could hit a man at 500 yards, a horse at 800 yards. And when you got hit with a 58 ball or bullet, you stayed hit."

He said that some of his guns were "definitely of the dresser-drawer type, but some of them could tell volumes."

Leake proposed that some day, next summer, he and his collector friends would gather all types of the guns personally used by Morgan County soldiers and "we'll go out in the country and you can shoot to your heart's content."

The proposal was accepted with unanimous celerity.

Officers Named

Having met four times on a very informal basis, the Round Table elected officers Friday. Chosen were John W. (Jack) Kurtz, president; Cecil Tendick, vice president, and Ernest L. Hoagland, secretary-treasurer.

Elliott, Dr. Friedrich Engelbach, W. A. Fay, E. H. Foersterling, Russell Gardner, Jim Holman, C. A. Hemphill, Dr. Alfred J. Henderson, Dr. Walter B. Hendrickson, Dr. E. C. Bone, Ernest L. Hoagland, Edward Hopper, Frank Jordan, John W. Kurtz, Robert Keplinger, Walter Leake, John Linebaugh.

Dr. C. P. McClelland, James R. McCosh, Dr. Paul Morris, Dr. Frank Norbury, Leonard Preston, Dr. Deckard C. Ritter, Carl Robinson, Edward Robinson, Donald Robinson, Dr. R. H. Simmons, Dr. J. P. Heart Disease Is Number One Health Enemy In Scott

By Dorothy Sauer
(Winchester Correspondent)
(Telephone Pioneer 2-3439)

WINCHESTER — Of the 83 deaths in Scott County during 1959 the largest percentage was due to Heart and Blood Vessel Diseases. This disease, which claimed 46 lives in Scott County last year, is the largest cause of deaths in the nation. Nationwide, this disease caused more than 54 per cent of all deaths combined. The county percentage figure of 55 per cent exceeds even the nation's percentage figures.

The next five leading causes of death in Scott County after the Heart and Blood Vessel Diseases for 1959 are as follows: Cancer, 13; All other causes, 12; Accidents, 6; Pneumonia and Influenza, 5; and Diabetes, 1.

Since Heart and Blood Vessel Diseases are responsible for more deaths among persons under 65 — persons in the most productive years of their lives — than the next five leading causes of death combined then it is up to us as citizens of Scott County to help fight this dread disease by giving generously during February which is designated as Heart Month.

Chairman of the Heart Drive in our county is Albert Hainsfurther, Jr. He has stated that letters are being completed for mailing to rural residents of the county under the supervision of Mrs. Warren Breeding, rural chairman. House to house solicitation will be made in each of the towns in Scott County on Heart Sunday, Feb. 28.

Editorial Comment

A Test Of Our Commitment

Prefacing the annual report of the Ford Foundation for the year 1959 its president Henry T. Heald wrote the following words which seem particularly significant to Jacksonville area residents now:

"The destiny of our nation depends on the degree to which more people comprehend two central facts of our time:

—education is now the indispensable medium for survival and progress;

—a national commitment to education consists of infinitely more than remedies to problems of formal education, like bulging enrollments, inadequate teaching salaries, curriculum upheavals, and other apparent crises of the moment or the decade.

"The wave of concern about problems of education has been mounting for more than a decade. It could grow into a strong tide carrying American civilization to new levels of maturity, wisdom, and vitality. Or it could diminish into a ripple of indifference and complacency, leading to a static society, or worse."

On Saturday, February 20, 1960, the voters of the local school district will make a major decision regarding the future of education here at home. At that time these electors will decide whether to authorize a tax increase in order to provide additional revenue for the education fund.

This election will prove a test of our commitment to education.

Let us hope that it results in "new levels of maturity, wisdom, and vitality" rather than an indication of "indifference and complacency."

Communication

Jacksonville, Illinois
February 4, 1960

Dear Editor and Citizens,

Like every citizen and tax payer in District 117 I have been interested in the school referendum on February twentieth. Many people have asked me my opinion on the subject; I have read the various "Communications" sent to our newspaper. It seems to me that the real broad issues are being ignored by many people. There is disagreement about what constitutes the frills and the fads in education. Some people are nostalgic for the "good old days" in education, whatever that may mean. I suspect that the good old days never really existed at all, except in peoples' imagination.

(1) Let us examine the financial argument that property owners advance. I will admit that real estate bears too much of the burden of the cost of local government. But that is a matter to take up with your representatives to the state legislature. Other sources of revenue should be tapped to relieve the tax burden on real estate. But as former President Grover Cleveland said about his views on the tariff, "This is a condition which confronts us, not a theory."

We have a condition that confronts us; there must be enough money to support an adequate educational program for the young people of this district. We cannot wait for some other sources of revenue to be exploited. The children are going through school now; they will not have an opportunity later.

It has been my belief that people can and do afford money for what they want. Consider these comparisons. Every year the American people spend more for alcoholic beverages than they spend for public education. They also spend a larger amount for candy, chewing gum, and soft drinks than they do for education. A larger amount is spent for cosmetics and toilet sundries than is spent for public education. Do you understand what I mean when I say people spend money for what they desire? I might add that the American people spend seven times as much for passenger automobiles as they do for public schools.

(2) A second basic argument for an adequate program is often overlooked. I lived during and through the economic depression of the 1930's. Mortgages were being foreclosed, men lost their jobs and their savings melted away. Children were hungry and sick. Why did we not have a Communist revolution? Why were barricades not thrown up in the streets? Because our schools had done a good job in teaching American ideals; that there was a lawful way to seek redress of grievances. It is my considered opinion that we might have had a social and economic upheaval had it not been for our public schools.

(3) One of the advantages claimed for an education is that young people are able to rise above their environment; that they will be dissatisfied with the status quo. There must be progress. From a materialistic standpoint, this creates a great demand for all kinds of manufactured products. Both the desire and the ability to consume a greater number of these products results from an adequate education. The business community and associations of manufacturers should be the most militant and active supporters of adequate financial support for schools.

(4) So far we have considered the more materialistic aspects of school support. Let us now consider a most important one. Someone has defined education as "a race between civilization and catastrophe." We must provide adequate revenue to support a desirable, modern program of education, or the civilization we forfeit will be our own. I want to see provision made for the next generation, and the ones after that. That means provision for the atypical children as well as the average. Even critics of our public schools, like Admiral Rickover, believe that we should do more for the gifted. Certainly this country needs the developed talents of this group: not just scientists, but sociologists, teachers, social workers, diplomats, poets, and musicians as well. I know of no top flight educator in this country who does not believe in kindergartens, special classes for atypical children, and better school facilities for the boys and girls.

People who are opposed to the "frills" in education, then, should dispense with electric refrigerators and hang the butter and milk down in a well, like they did fifty years ago. These same people may also, if they are consistent, restore horses and mules as motive power, and means of transportation. They will, of course, do their own milking, and not have to buy butter and milk from the store. The ladies will buy "material" from the dry goods store, and make all the clothes for the family, and teach the girls to do likewise. Then there will be plenty of "chores" to do after school, and the physical education classes can be discontinued. Oh yes, I forgot to mention that if corn pickers are dispensed with, the boys can "shuck" corn before and after school and scoop it into the crib so as to remove the need for physical education classes. Of course, these classes are required by law; I don't know how we would get around this.

Let us retain the good new days instead of pining for the old. Vote "yes" for the improvement of educational opportunity for the boys and girls.

CLARK GETS ROLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Fred Clark, known on stage and screen as "the man of a thousand funny faces," has been signed for one of the major roles in "Viva Madison Avenue!" which will have its Broadway premier on April 6. This new comedy about the swanky goings-on in the advertising agencies is a stage version which author George Panetta has adapted from his own novel.

Clark doesn't know where he got the "thousand funny faces" identification as, he says, "I'm just an ordinary man with a bald head, a mustache and a pretty wife." The latter is Broadway musical star, Benay Venauta.

Previously, Clark has appeared on the Broadway stage in "Rumanoff and Juliet" and, as the income tax collector, in "The Mating Game."

In Hollywood

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—One of the screen's finest farceurs is making his first movie in 11 years.

Charlie Ruggles, not the least bit bitter, explains: "I just got too busy in television and the stage."

But that's not the real reason—which may help explain why modern movie comedies aren't as good as those prewar farces you see on television.

In the 30s, the studios controlled the movies. And comedies were always loaded with masters like Ruggles, Jack Oakie, Frank McHugh and the late Frank Morgan. More often than not a fan came away remembering Ruggles or Oakie more than the listed stars. The comedians were master scene - stealers too.

After the war came the big Hollywood revolution where the big stars got script, director and cast control. It's a short-sighted attitude, but few big stars want a Ruggles in a scene with them. They can't help but come off second best.

"The few stars who do surround themselves with good people," says Ruggles, "are the ones who last the longest. Look at Bing Crosby. And Jack Benny on television. He's been big for years because he lets the gags bounce off him."

Charlie is doing "Pleasure of His Company," re-creating the stage role that won him a Tony Award from the American Theater Wing.

On his first day of shooting, Fred Astaire played a scene with Charlie and told him: "I know what a magnificent job Cyril Ritchard did with this part on Broadway—and I only hope I can be half as good. But, Charlie, if you see anything I can do to improve it, tell me. I respect your advice."

Astaire is another big star who knows the value of surrounding himself with good people.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One of Harold Lloyd's best movies will be re - released sometime this year.

Composer Walter Scharf has just completed an original score for "The Freshman," first shown in 1924.

"It was the most challenging job I've had," said Scharf, nominated 19 times for musical Oscars. "There's no talking on that screen and the score has to supplant it."

It cost Lloyd $100,000 to score the hour-and-16-minute film.

"But I think he'll make millions off it," says Scharf. "Lloyd's comedy is so great that his picture looks as if it was made yesterday."

matter of FACT

From the time of Aristotle until early in the 19th century, it was commonly thought that dew "fell." Instead, it is formed on an object which is cooled to the point where surrounding air cannot hold its water vapor. The classic demonstration of dew is the formation of it on a glass containing a cold drink.

Doing for Others Helps Keep Elderly Young in Heart

BY MARIE DAERR

"I think you're most blessed for what you do for the people who can't thank you," said 70-year-old Mrs. S., a former school teacher.

"The world has been pretty good to me; I feel I owe it something in return," said Mr. Z., a 60-year-old businessman.

Those statements are by older people who have found the secret to happiness doing something for others. They go to prove what many an expert in the field of aging is saying: The best hobby is the one that helps somebody else.

Mrs. S., a widow, makes a year-round project of buying dolls from the thrift shops of the Salvation Army and similar agencies. She lets her friends know she is delighted to receive from them scraps of pretty material, artificial flowers from discarded hats, bits of bright ribbon.

With these, Mrs. S. makes new outfits for the dolls. Each November she ships about 75 dolls to a church mission in the South.

"The dolls go to youngsters in 40 Sunday schools," Mrs. S. said.

The dolls aren't Mrs. S.'s only contribution to the mission, which she visited years ago. She keeps her eye peeled for pretty little dresses on the thrift-shop racks. She washes and irons them, replaces a lost belt or a torn collar. The dresses, too, go to the mission.

Still other happy tasks are making bags in which patients of a state mental hospital may keep small personal articles; saving scraps of paper and other items that can be used in therapy; giving the patients various items of clothing.

"I don't wear my dresses out," said Mrs. S. "I give them to the hospital. I persuade my friends to do the same."

FOR MR. Z., happiness comes from showing films on a regular, tight-packed schedule to chronic patients in a hospital; patients in a hospital for crippled children; old folks in two homes for the aged; boys who meet Saturday at a recreation center.

"Collecting and editing films are my hobbies," said Mr. Z. "I have a big library of these.

"It's little enough to do," is his comment on his project.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — While President Eisenhower's policy of calmness under stress has been able to keep the American people cool, it doesn't follow that his attitude will always have the same effect on allies and neutrals.

For example, he has been continually calm on the question of American defense against the Soviet Union. He also has always pursued a policy of avoiding extreme statements.

His two policies fused this week when he was asked to comment on criticism that American military strength was dangerously lagging behind the Soviets.

"I am always a little bit amazed about this business of catching up," he told his news conference. "What you want is enough, a thing that is adequate.

"A deterrent has no added power, once it has become completely adequate for compelling respect of any potential opponent for your future deterrent and therefore to make him act prudently."

This explained why, despite criticism, particularly from the Democrats, Eisenhower has refused to pump as much money into defense speedups as some of his administration's critics consider necessary.

What he said could be put another way: Why try to build up an armament whose only usefulness is to impress people with its size when it isn't size that counts but the adequacy of the defense you actually have?

This attitude indicates, as much as anything Eisenhower has said since becoming President, the apparent self-confidence he has in the judgement of himself and his aides, at least in military matters.

Nevertheless, there is one possibility which the twin Eisenhower policy of calmness and unexaggerated statement may not be able to anticipate because it applies strictly to American ability to defend itself against the Soviet Union.

It's this:

What will be the effect on American allies and neutrals if the Soviets continue to build up a gigantic arsenal, plus the kind of "fantastic" new weapons Premier Nikita Khrushchev said is in the works?

Will Soviet accomplishments have a discouraging effect on allies and neutrals—much closer to the Soviet Union than this country—since they can't equip themselves with the kind of defense America can erect?

And will a Soviet armament, if it's much bigger and more glittering than this country's, persuade others that the Soviet Union has outstripped America as a nation and world power?

Perhaps Eisenhower has taken into consideration this kind of answer to the questions just raised: If American defense against the Soviet Union is adequate to prevent a Soviet attack, since it would in effect be a worldwide defense, it would be just as much a protection for the allies as for America.

Meanwhile, of course, the military front is not the only one on which the cold war in the years ahead will be fought.

For instance, this country will probably step up its aid to other nations, particularly neutrals like India, to stiffen their backbone and put them in the American camp, granted American and Soviet power come down to being equal in necessary power even though different in size.

Thoughtfulness Keys Way Toward Happy Marriage

Want your marriage to be happy? Then don't forget or discredit these important facts:

- Make friends that both husband and wife enjoy. Marriage isn't two AGAINST the world, but two making a place for themselves IN the world.
- Avoid in-law trouble. Even if this means moving to a different part of the country to get away from interfering in-laws—the price isn't too high to pay. But probably it just means being as tolerant of the other's parents as of one's own.
- Be willing to learn new social skills and take up new hobbies in order to be companionable. Two self-centered persons can't possibly be companionable.
- Build up each other's egos instead of tearing each other down. In daily living, compliments are far more effective than criticism.
- Never nurse a grudge. It's better to fight than to sulk.
- Always have a goal that both can work toward. When you achieve one goal, have another to reach for. But be sure the goals are ones that both of you consider important.
- Never stop really seeing or listening to each other. Nobody wants to be ignored or taken for granted.
- Never hesitate to say "I'm sorry" or "It was my fault" or "please forgive me." It is almost impossible for two persons to get along if both always have to be right.
- Get into the habit of saying "our" instead of "my."
- Don't become such creatures of habit that life doesn't hold any surprises or unexpected pleasures.
- Never, never say "I wish you wouldn't . . ." or "The trouble with you is . . ." or "If you had only listened to me. . . ."

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

Prayer and Life

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

I have offered some comments upon the extent to which Sunday has become so largely given over to sports, especially the championship games that bring together the thousands of sports worshipers, and that glue the eyes of other millions to their TV screens on the Sunday afternoons.

But a deeper aspect that calls for some reflection is in the association of football and prayer. In two instances newspapers reported that when the victorious players went to their dressing room, instead of outbursts of hilarity they had a quiet session of prayer, ending in one case, at least, with the Lord's Prayer. I suppose that the natural outburst of hilarious rejoicing probably followed, but the prayer session seems to me very significant.

Prayer AFTER a victory, or after any real triumph in sports or life, is a very good thing.

It emphasizes a spirit of humility, instead of a too-self congratulatory and arrogant spirit that might easily be the beginning of an ultimate loss. Victory as well as loss means a testing time. So, prayer seems to me very fitting after victory.

I have noted, however, that some players have prayer BEFORE a contest, and here there might be at least a mild questioning concerning the nature and motive of the praying.

Prayer, and the prayerful spirit, might well have a very proper place before as well as after a game. But it depends upon the spirit of the praying.

The tensions before important contests are said to be terrific. If prayer helps to induce a quiet spirit, to calm nerves and emotions, and helps put players in a proper mind, it must be a very good thing.

But if prayer is a sort of talisman assuring, or inspiring, advantage over opponents, it is a debasement of religion, and a very bad thing. I think that every sensible person would prefer to see a team of irreligious roughnecks, who had stamina and skill and the will to win, triumphing over a group lacking those essentials, but depending on some prayerful advantage.

And the important thing is that this applies to life as well as to sports. The most downright serious thing a person can do is to pray. One's prayer emphasizes more than anything else the nature and sincerity of one's religion.

I think the one great purpose of true prayer is to put ourselves on God's side, not to seek god on our side, or to ask for special favor. How could a God of love and justice show partisan favoritism?

Combine Broccoli and Ham For a Tempting Casserole

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Large-appetite families want sturdy dishes. Busy housewives want dinner recipes that can be prepared easily and use leftovers or budget meats. Therefore, these two recipes will be generally welcome:

Broccoli and Ham Casserole
(Yield: 6 servings)

Wash 1 bunch (1½ pounds) fresh broccoli, split big stems to cook uniformly, and place in a saucepan with 1-inch boiling water and ½ teaspoon salt. Bring to boiling point without cover and cook 3 minutes. Cover and boil 20 minutes or only until crisp-tender. Drain, if necessary. Place in a 6-cup casserole with alternate layers of ½ cup chopped leftover cooked ham or luncheon meat and 1½ cups medium white sauce, seasoned to taste with salt. Combine ½ cup grated sharp cheddar cheese with ¾ cup soft bread crumbs and 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted, and sprinkle over the top. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 25 minutes or until brown.

Fresh Kale with Frankfurters
(Yield: 6 servings)

Wash 3 pounds fresh kale. Remove and discard coarse stems. Cut into 2 to 3-inch lengths. Place in saucepan with ¼ cup boiling water, 2 bouillon cubes, ¾ cup chopped onion, 1½ teaspoons salt and 1½ teaspoons crumbled whole tarragon leaves. Arrange 6 frankfurters over the top. Cover and cook 15 minutes or only until tender. Remove frankfurters and add ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper, ½ teaspoon sugar and 1½ teaspoon fresh lemon juice to kale. Toss lightly. Turn into a serving dish over which arrange frankfurters. Serve hot as the main dish.

Monday's Dinner: Broccoli and ham casserole, parsley potatoes, dark bread, butter or margarine, mincemeat turnovers, coffee, tea, milk.

Dismal Outlook Seen By Forum Speakers

URBANA — A nation will have reached "the breaking point" when peacetime taxes take 36 per cent of the gross national income, Prof. C. Northcote Parkinson said at the second University of Illinois Agricultural Industries Forum Tuesday and Wednesday.

Prof. Parkinson, internationally known British historian, political scientist, author and lecturer, wrote "Parkinson's Law" and the forthcoming "The Law and the Profits."

He urged "men of business to avoid copying the government way of finance."

Ahead of Horse

The individual, family or firm which starts with a known income is using a sounder financial method than the government, which begins by listing all that it wants to spend and ends by making its revenue (and borrowings) equal the total, Parkinson said.

Expenditure rises to meet income; and government expenditure rises to meet an income that is not even known, a ceiling that is not there. The story of taxation is the story of taxes being raised in time of war and only slightly lowered when the war is over. Taxation is increased, therefore, step by step until the breaking point is reached.

Prof. Parkinson admitted that perhaps the economists will rise to tell him he's wrong over his estimate of the breaking-point.

Must Stop Somewhere

"Maybe I am," he said, "but if my answer is wrong, what answer is right? The breaking-point is there. We know that from the fate of empires that have collapsed in the past. If such a point exists, are we not right to ask where it is? Are we not entitled to know? Somewhere ahead of us in this progression lies the precipice. We should mark it on the map.

"Still more to the point, we should place a barrier across the road and tell all our leaders and politicians that this is the point beyond which we will not go. With such a barrier in position, we should all feel safer," he concluded.

A Bleak View

A Princeton, Ill., banker sketched an anything but rosy financial picture for the American farmer for the future.

G. E. Sears told the Forum Wednesday gradually rising farm costs and generally lowered net income are forcing smaller farmers out of business and narrowing the profit margin for individual farms.

He told some 700 business representatives that net farm income has dropped one billion dollars each year for the past three years.

Costs Too High

Sears contended farmers across the country will pour back 71 per cent of a grossed 37½ billion dollars this year into costs.

He called "lack of competent management" the basic farm problem today. He warned credit agencies to observe tight lending policies so as not to "compound the poor management problem."

Modern Sales Methods Boost Sale Of Meats

Refrigeration, scientific production and prepackaging have helped to keep meat in its historic place as the most important food on the family table, a Chicago food executive declared last week.

N. L. Chaplicki, vice president of meat operations for the National Tea company, Chicago, stated that almost all consumers want better quality meat and would eat more of it if they could afford it.

He reported that recent consumer surveys showed that quality meat was the most important item in food shopping. Homemakers do their shopping at stores where they can get quality meat.

Refrigeration has made possible many changes in our eating habits, he pointed out.

Scientific methods of producing commercial frying chickens have changed many families' eating habits. Fried chicken has become an everyday menu item rather than a Sunday or picnic special. Last year Americans consumed 36 pounds of chicken per person.

Prepackaging self-service meats are the most recent change in retail meat distribution. The number of self-service meat counters jumped from 1,500 in 1950 to 11,500 in 1956.

In years to come, Chaplicki predicts the increased sale of higher quality, leaner, more tender and flavorful beef, lamb and pork. He cited the great increase in meat-type hogs in the past five years. He also expects more pre-cut and packaged frozen cuts of meat to come out of the packing plants at prices comparable with those of today's store-cut packaged meats.

Suffers Injury While Operating Caterpillar Lift

JERSEYVILLE — Merle McKenna of Jerseyville, an employee of the Gorman Brothers Construction Co., suffered severe injuries to his right hand Tuesday morning. He was operating a caterpillar high lift at the Jersey Community hospital where excavation is underway for the addition to the building. When the machine lost balance McKenna started to lower it, throwing him to the front of the tractor. He placed his hand on the frame of the machine where the lift struck him.

McKenna was given emergency treatment at the hospital and was transferred to the Alton Memorial hospital in Jacoby Brothers ambulance. Following treatment a cast was applied and the patient's condition is reported as improving.

Save Time Later By Inspecting Machinery Now

By KEN COLE

(Editor's Note: Ken Cole of Palmyra is taking a farm journalism course in connection with his studies at the U. I. College of Agriculture.)

Breakdowns at the peak of planting time are a serious problem for farmers. These troubles can be lessened by careful repair and replacement of worn parts during the slack winter and early spring season.

Dwight Kampe, agricultural engineer at the University of Illinois, reports that farmers often make extra repair work necessary by storing machinery carelessly in the fall. He adds that many farmers don't fully realize how much time and trouble they can avoid if they work on their machinery when they aren't in a hurry.

Inspection is the key to readying implements for spring planting. A check-list of parts for needed repairs includes wheels, bearings, ground contact parts, adjustment levers and all moving parts. Rust is the main thing to treat on moving parts and parts that touch the ground.

A checklist for every implement will show many things that might cause trouble. An implement that worked well last season may have some worn parts that will fail before the next season is finished.

Whether to repaint implements is often a question, Kampe says. It makes them look better and fits in with good maintenance practices. Although repainting will add little to the life or performance of heavy implements, its effect on the morale of the user cannot be overlooked.

If the rate of flow is changeable on spreading or planting implements, always check the machine for proper rate of flow before taking it to the field.

Baptist Class To Meet At The Church Thursday

ROODHOUSE — The February meeting of the Della Philathea Class of the First Baptist Church will be held in the fellowship room of the church on Thursday evening, Feb. 11. The following will serve on the supper committee: Mrs. R. S. Bess; Mrs. Cora Aulgur; Mrs. Cecile Manning and Mrs. Homer Rimbey.

Devotions will be presented by Mrs. Henry Hannaford who will give a book review.

On Valentine's Day, Sunday, Feb. 14, at the Presbyterian Church in White Hall, the Chi Chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma society, will hold a tea at which time the state visitor, Miss Cecile Coombs, East St. Louis, will make her official visit. An executive board meeting will precede the general meeting.

This meeting has been designated as guest day for the chapter. A musical program under the direction of Mrs. Fleet Barnett will be a feature of the afternoon, beginning at 2:30, followed by the tea and social hour.

DeMolays Meet

Master Counselor Harold Durham opened Wednesday night's meeting of Eli Chapter DeMolay for boys of the Roodhouse-White Hall area. The meeting was held in the White Hall Masonic Hall. It was voted to sell Golden Butter-Bits candy by the can. The date of the sale will be announced later.

Anyone wishing to place an order may contact Harold Durham, Roodhouse, or the treasurer, Larry Ash, White Hall. The proceeds will be added to the fund to help defray expense of fees for new candidates and to buy rituals.

A number of the boys will attend the Sadie Hawkins dance on the evening of Feb. 26 at the Alton Masonic Hall. The dance will be sponsored by the Alton chapter of DeMolay for DeMolays, Rainbows and their dates. Plans were also discussed for members to attend the installation of officers of the Alton chapter on Mar. 5.

The meeting was closed with prayer by acting chaplain, Larry Ash.

Rotary Club

Program chairman Jerry Hagen welcomed the farmer guests at the Rotary club Wednesday night. Approximately 90 adults partook of the weekly supper served by members of the Della Philathea Class of the First Baptist Church in Hopkins Community Hall.

Invocation was given by Rev. W. W. Williams, Columbia, Mo., a former member of the Roodhouse club.

Mr. Hagen introduced a Greenfield farmer, Henry Longmeyer, who made a tour of Russia some months ago together with a group of other farmers. The trip was in the interest of agriculture as approved by the state department. Mr. Longmeyer showed slides along with his talk.

Terry Fry and Mike Henry were Junior Rotarians present.

SELLOUT LIMITED

NEW YORK (AP)—Sweet and sour are the uses of adversity in the case of "Little Mary Sunshine," the musical which has become a sudden off-Broadway hit at the Orpheum Theater in Greenwich Village.

Now a sell-out with a heavy advance sale, it may sell no more than 199 seats a performance to abide by lower salary concessions made by the several unions. So, 100 idle seats are roped off nightly.

Times Change, So Do Mutual Risk Policies

Some 90 years ago the farmers of the Midwest were faced with a change in the times that disturbed and perplexed them.

They couldn't get fire insurance on their property, except at prohibitory prices. The established companies simply didn't want their business—and there was a good reason why.

Before the day of the organized, around the clock, fire department, a house on fire usually burned to the ground. The family and nearby neighbors saved as much of the contents as they could and then stood by protecting adjacent property as the fire burnt itself out. This was so in town and country.

The fire departments changed all that. Seldom was there a total loss in the city. There was no change in the country. The Fire insurance agents began shying away from farmers. Then they cancelled policies.

Mutual Assistance

Led principally by the Grange, the farmers began yelling for protection against fire losses. Some of the quicker ones began studying the structure of the insurance giants of Hartford and Providence and found nearly all of them had started out in life as a mutual concern.

Mutual insurance was invented and publicized by that great American, Benjamin Franklin of Philadelphia, back in 1752, when most of the city lay in ashes. He figured this way: we wouldn't be in such bad shape today if say Philadelphia and Boston and New York and Trenton and Providence and some other cities were in a compact whereby everyone would kick in to pay for the major percentage of the loss sustained by one of the member cities.

He called it mutual protection. The new idea caught on fast.

Many Companies Born

It sustained a rebirth in Illinois 85 years ago when farmers began organizing their own insurance associations. In some counties as many as four or five companies were formed. The Jacksonville company was organized in 1876. A year later one was formed in Franklin by the men in the southern part of the county. Three were organized in Brown county; one of the three was unusual in that only non-smokers, who pledged to hire only non-smoking help, were taken into membership.

With easier transportation most of the companies consolidated, with headquarters in the county seat. The Jacksonville and Franklin association united it in 1955. lin association united in 1955, with offices in the Farm Bureau building.

First Directors

The first directors of the Jacksonville company were N. Fountain, Joseph Blackburn, W. C. Self, J. M. English, John Gordon, John C. Pfeil, Alexander Johnson and John S. True. The first 10 policies, ranging in value from $1,000 to $3,000, were taken by W. C. Self, John M. Black, James W. Boston, J. M. English, James Bourn, Elias Metcalf, Edmund Blackburn and A. C. Patterson of Jacksonville; John S. True, Concord, and Shelton J. Mattingly, Liberty.

There were no losses, and no assessments, during the first two years. The first assessment of 5c per $100 of insurance was paid by 82 members the next year. The amounts paid ranged from 15c up to $3 by J. H. Potts, who had some very nice barns in which to house his prized Shorthorn cattle.

Assessments were skipped in five other years, but were mighty high in two years 65c in 1892 and 97½c in 1895.

Cash Reserves Built

In 1935 the directors voted to assess annually, with the surplus to be placed in interest bearing securities. In recent years the assessment has been stablized at 20c per $100 and the company now owns in government bonds and accrued interest $102,315. Reinsurance with other mutual companies began in 1914. Reinsurance with five county organizations stood last year at $2,668,470.

The heaviest loss year the company ever sustained was in 1957 when Charley Drury's barn near Alexander and the Literberry Christian church burned to the ground. The company paid $12,100 on the barn and contents and $11,000 on the church.

The policies of the company have changed with the times. Back in 1889 the association had one of its highly controversial annual meetings when some of the members wanted it to insure rural school houses and churches. After much debate the idea was turned down, but within a few years both were quietly admitted.

Shifting Ideals, Ideas

Changing times bring new problems, but the mutual idea is pliable to change. In 1913 the barn burned on the farm of Charles S. French, but he was able to save his new automobile before the roof fell in. Although he was a director, the members reminded him at the next meeting that since automobiles had no place in the business of farming they would not be insured. They further ruled "we recommend that they be kept in buildings other than barns." A few years later, without comment, automobiles were classified as farm property.

The radio caused concern too, as the early ones were a definite fire hazard. The members decided that a radio set wasn't a piece of furniture, and hence not to be insured. It sneaked into good graces a few years ago and when TV came along it was welcomed without question.

New

A new set of problems have come along and the Morgan company, mutual and flexible, has met it with a new "multiple peril endorsement," which will protect farm property from such items as ever-increasing vandalism, malicious mischief and accidental shooting by hunters. Many city people, on a short work week and its leisure, are taking to the country in increasing droves and some of them are downright vicious. In the fall of the year many buy their first shotgun and hunting license, and regard any pasture as a proper hunting range. Increased police protection would be helpful, of course, but a hundred deputies couldn't police Jersey county on a pleasant weekend. It is doubtful if 500 could.

So mutual insurance looks promising. It is being written here for the first time on an experimental assessment of 10c per $100.

Until World War II the annual meeting was a big thing, with a dinner for the policy holder and his wife. It was more of a social affair than a business meeting and sometimes so many turned out that it was necessary to feed them in three different churches. Sometimes the association had to borrow the money to pay off the bills. So when rationing and other wartime restrictions came around the directors weren't too displeased when forced to abandon the dinner meeting, and there has been no suggestion that they be revived. At the last annual meeting only two policy holders and the board members showed up.

Experienced Leaders

The officers and directors must find their work congenial and stimulating, because most of them serve for years. The secretaries are a particularly hardy group. A. C. Rice was secretary for more than 30 years, then came H. P. Joy, from 1939 to 1955, and C. Don Randsell took over when the Franklin and Jacksonville groups united. Randsell has a first class chance of setting an all-time record of some sort. He is 58 years old and has already served on the board 31 years. He is also one of the nine directors of the Illinois association of mutual fire insurance companies, which meets four or six times a year in Chicago to coordinate policies for all member associations.

New Book Gives Data For Space Travelers

By Mrs. R. P. Lisensky

Editor's Note: Our guest reviewer, Mrs. Lisensky, has first-hand knowledge of young people's interests since she has a young son and daughter.

This is a proud time for the readers of the "Rockets and Space" column, by Walter B. Hendrickson, Jr. in the Junior Journal Courier.

A new book, the "Handbook for Space Travelers," has recently been published by Bobbs-Merrill, Co., Inc., and our own Mr. Hendrickson is the author.

In his usual clear, well-organized style of writing, Mr. Hendrickson tells us all about rockets as the tools of space exploration: the history of rockets; rocket bases; the future of rockets; and, finally, where to go in space.

May Change Jacksonville

In describing space stations, the author feels that perhaps the space station affecting life on earth most directly will be the TV relay stations. He says that the tall TV antenna of the type which is seen so often in Jacksonville may become an antique after space stations are put into service!

This is a book which is hard to put down. Of unusual interest is the chapter on "Ourselves As Others See Us," in which Mr. Hendrickson tells us what our earth would look like if one were living on Venus, or on Mars, or even on our own moon.

It would not be surprising to find science fiction writers using this fine new book to help them with the scientific details of their stories about space. Mr. Hendrickson even accepts the challenge of explaining relativity for us.

"Handbook for Space Travelers" is a good book to have on your bookshelf. You might find yourself going back to this book again and again, as new events take place in the field of rocket research.

C Q Radio Hams — Radio For Boys

By Joseph A. Smith

The Vacuum Tube

Before we go into transmitters and receivers we should look more carefully into the "Valve" (as the British say) or vacuum tube.

You would be wise to reread carefully the two sections "Vacuum Tubes" and "The Triode Vacuum Tube" in "How To Become A Radio Amateur." There it is put very simply. For more detailed information the A.R.R.L. Handbook is the best source for the would-be amateur.

In any event, it is well to think of the control grid of vacuum tube as a control gate or valve. Opening or closing a water valve lets more or less water flow in a pipe; similarly, varying the voltage applied to the control grid of a three element triode will allow more or less current to flow from cathode (or filament) to the plate.

A more negative voltage on this grid will tend to repell electrons flowing toward the plate and thus will reduce current flow within the tube. A more positive voltage on the grid will speed the electrons on toward the plate and increase this current flow proportionately.

A section or topic often misunderstood by newcomers is the so-called Plate Current versus Grid Voltage curve and the part that it plays in the proper operation of any given vacuum tube. The amount of grid bias voltage applied to the grid and the amount of plate current flowing through that tube determines how that particular tube is being operated. We have three main types of operation classifications: namely, Class "A," Class "B," and Class "C."

Class "A" tubes are biased so that, when passing their rated amount of plate current, they are operating along the linier portion of the Eg (grid voltage) versus IP (plate current) tube characteristic curve. This point is roughly half the way between Saturation on the upper peak and Cut-off at the lower end; thus the output signal from such a tube is a faithful reproduction of the imput signal. Such stages are used in speech pre-amplifiers and Hi-Fi pre-amplifiers.

Three Jet Balloons

By Mrs. Otto Dorr

BEEP! BEEP!

Up, up it rose higher than the wellhouse roof, over the garage gable, where the toy windmill spun excitedly, and across the drive toward a towering oak.

The rugged tree grew concerned, "Stay away, stay away!" it tried to call, "You cannot get down, if you alight here yellow jet."

But the balloon spiraled closer to the stubby twig ends, then it caught one and wrapped its ribbon length across the branch.

"Get a fishing pole and a ladder," cried Henry, but the pole was too short and the ladder not high enough.

The balloon flickered in the sunlight like a decoration on a Christmas Tree. It did not want to come down.

Tree's Balloon?

"Do you want to be my balloon, Yellow Jet?" the old tree asked.

"Yes," the jet answered, "I like it away up here."

"Well, we'll see—but that little boy will miss you. Last summer Charles' kite caught in my branches and no one could get it down until its pink paper softened and tore and its sticks loosened.

"I'll do my best to take good care of you tonight. I have never had a toy balloon before."

So that night the length of yellow rubber sparkled on the oaks fingers, but the tree had heard Grandfather promise, "I'll try to get it for you, Henry."

Grandfather Tries

The next day Grandfather searched through his stock of bamboo poles until he found a very long and slender one. When he pulled out the stepladder, rain began to fall. He only pushed his hat farther over his eyes and climbed the ladder.

Slowly he worked the bamboo point under those high twigs and moved it carefully about. A tear would spoil the balloon. Then, strangest of all, the yellow rubber wound one end tightly around the fishing pole.

Cautiously, Grandfather lowered the slender bamboo point. Now it was a bit clear, Grandfather took one step down his ladder, then another and another.

The fishing pole pointed farther and farther away from the tree until at last the yellow jet came safely to the earth, swinging like a fish at the end of a rod.

"Goodbye, my Yellow Jet," the great oak thought, "I'll tell your story to my robins when they come. You are with your little boy. He can blow up a jet balloon and I could never do that."

RED MAPLE and SASSAFRAS

By Rip Barnsdall

The red maple is a tree that reaches a height between 50 and 70 feet when full grown.

The bark of young red maples is smooth and gray. As the tree gets older, the bark turns a dark brown and gets shaggy or scaly.

Sassafras has little value as a timber tree. It has been famous since the days of the pioneers for the tea made from boiling the root bark.

Oil of sassafras is used in the making of soaps and rubbing lotions. The oil is made through a distillation process of the roots and root bark.

An Indian tribe in Louisiana used the leaves in making a soup they called gumbo.

Preparing Own Meat In Long-Ago Days

By Mary Pence Claywell

Part 2:

Home Smoked Treats

Folk had to prepare not only enough for the winter days, but enough to do until the next cold season arrived and Old Man Winter swooped down upon them again. The meat kept remarkably well, and seldom lost its savor or got strong, for folks in those days knew just how to do the job.

Nothing was sweeter, even in the hot summer time, than to trudge along with Ma to the smoke house to catch the sweet aroma of a hickory cured ham, when she sliced off the thick, lean slices.

On butchering day, women always got up early . . . sometimes as the clock struck three, or the old alarm clock on the kitchen shelf, rattled a raucous "Good morning." They hustled up for breakfast for their hungry men, for a good hearty breakfast was the first order of the day on the farm.

Good Hot "Java"

Pa and the older boys gulped down cups of hot, black coffee with gobs of thick cream floating around on the top like little, white sail boats, as Ma filled and refilled the big cups with steaming "java" as Pa called it.

She would stand beside the old wood-burning cook-stove with a contented smile upon her lips, as Pa and the boys ate.

There were fresh fried eggs, sunny side up, with hot biscuits, home meat, and butter, and honey in the comb, fresh from the hives in our own back yard.

(Andy reached for another slice of bacon as he listened to Aunt Jane's story of long-ago days.)

Pa always hung on at the table a little while, after the bigger boys had darted out, for -year-old Tom usually awakened too.

Ma said, "Ready for your coffee, little Man?" And Tom would sit up tall and straight, as Ma Dear filled his cup half full of rich milk and cream, and then poured in enough to color the good drink.

But it suited little Tom, and he drank it down in true man fashion "just like Pa."

Let's Go Birding

Day All to Oneself

By Emma Mae Leonhard

Recently I have heard many friends say that there should be more to living than our frantic scurrying to get and to spend, to act and to do and to continue doing. Why don't we pause sometimes in this life race?

Are we afraid to be alone? Wasn't it Scipio Africanus who said as far back as 200, B.C., that we are never less alone than when alone?

It was on the zero-cold morning of January 23 that we observed several examples of birds in solitude. In each case the birds seemed to be enjoying a day all to itself.

First of all, it was a Mockingbird. There it sat all alone in a tree near the Multiflora Rose hedge bordering the Country Club grounds. It was not shivering nor complaining in the cold thin sunshine. And it was not afraid, perhaps because there were plenty of small red rose hips in the rose hedge for it to eat.

As we drove farther on our birding trip, we came to an extensive cornfield. From the blanket of snow covering the rolling acres, broken and matted cornstalks protruded irregularly, here and there tassels still clinging to the top of the tawny stalk.

Empty World?

We saw no evidence of any living creature, and the world looked empty. Not even a wind was there to sing on to sigh to the dried corn-stalks. And then we saw life.

In the very center of a bundle of tassels on a corn-stalk far out among other stalks perched a lone Sparrow Hawk. Its reddish brown back and tail harmonized with the grayish tan tassels; its slate-blue crown and wings seemed to be absorbing the cold blue sky. And it perched there unafraid, with a day all to itself.

On down the road we drove along a snow-bound meadow. Snow was bank high along the fence. Over the great white plain flapped a single Crow, the slanting sunshine glittering upon its iridescent feathers; and it flapped on to enjoy a day all to itself.

Soon we caught sight of a dust-colored bird standing on the top of the snow bank. There a Horned Lark stood, oblivious to the snowbank. So absorbed was it in its solitude that it did not seem to notice us as we passed it; and we saw its black feather horns without searching for them. We left this lone lark to spend its day all to itself.

The last place we visited that January morning to check on the winter birds was Lake Jacksonville. Hardly had we finished our remark that we had not seen a Robin this year, when we observed a robin-sized bird sitting on a low branch of a tree.

Yes, it was a real Robin, its red breast glowing just as brightly in the cold sunshine as it would later in March or April. It was a lone Robin in the snow scene spending a day all to itself near the Sumac berries which were undoubtedly saving its life.

Should we envy these birds in their solitude, or should we learn from them how to spend a day to ourselves in contentment? We must choose, and let us choose wisely.

The towering elms upon the spacious lawn
Bow low before the morning sun is gone.
The people come from far and near,
Across the country miles,
To visit loved ones
See their friends,
And offer each a smile.

The nurses travel to and fro
As quickly as a wink,
To tell you of their worthy deeds
Would take a lot of ink.

The cars in many colors dressed
Bedeck the spacious lawn.
The clouds above, the snow below,
Present the afterglow.

The cedar waxwing loves fruit so much that this bird sometimes gets drunk from stuffing itself on over-ripe berries.

Calculating And Working Machines

By Gerald Lawless

Working machines are forms of the six simple machines; wedge, incline plane, pulley, wheel and axle, lever, and the screw, or may be made up of various combinations of the six simple machines. They are used by man and other animals to accomplish work.

These machines are responsible to a great extent, for the technological level that makes leisure time possible. Some of these machines are used to raise or lower solid weight (e.g. a rope and pulley used to lift bales of hay from the ground and to load them on a truck).

Other machines, of this type, are used for moving weights across and parallel to the ground (e.g. the overhead crane and lift located at the University of California's Bevatron Building for the manipulation of the heavy equipment there).

Still machines of this type are used for projecting solids (the atlatl was used by the Archaic indians in Southern Illinois to throw spears), lifting fluids (a well pump), dividing bodies (rip saw), shaping bodies by the removal of parts (a carpenter's plane), shaping bodies by pressure (drill press), making fabrics (loom), and producing sound (harpsichord; obae).

Mechanical Brain

Calculating machines, like working machines, are composed of the six simple machines or combinations of them. The main difference between calculating machines and working machines is the result that they usually produce in man's life.

Working machines usually save H.M.E. (Human Muscular Energy), thereby providing more leisure time. Calculating machines, on the other hand, usually save human mental acticity. They also therefore provide leisure time.

Animals also use calculating machines but not in the same sense as man. They usually have to be taught by man to use the machines—it is learned behavior with usually no realization on the animal's part of its reason or end results.

These machines (the more complex ones such as I.B.M. computers utilizing fantastic and complicated relay circuits and memory units) are capable of adding, subtracting, multiplying, alphabetizing, compiling and analyzing data, and of computing tables of functions by the addition of differences. Simpler calculating machines such as the abacus can add, subtract, and multiply.

Hamburgers Have Become Big Business

Capable of producing up to 600 broiled hamburgers every hour, the local Burger Chef drive-in, typical of those across the nation, is a new business force in the community which is contributing substantially to daily purchases of foods and supplies.

Open each day from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., Friday and Saturday till 12 p.m. the Burger Chef operation when at full capacity can turn out well over two and a half million hamburgers a year. Thousands of dozens of buns and tons of lean, select quality beef plus many gallons of catsup and mustard are purchased from local food suppliers to swell the total area sales.

A steady flow of milk shakes and other beverages calls for daily deliveries from local dairies and soft drink suppliers. The average store uses 10,000 gallons of milk per year for milk shakes.

In addition to the purchase of supplies, the Burger Chef drive-in also contributes to area payrolls through employment of local individuals who operate the automated hamburger and milk shake equipment.

Part of a national organization, Burger Chef stores are all locally owned or managed by individuals who have entered the growing drive-in food field from a wide variety of previous occupations.

Each Burger Chef, therefore, is entirely a local business, permanently established to grow with the community. (Adv.)

As I See It

by E. W. BROWN

If you have stock in an automatic dishwasher company . . . treat it with respect, because it just might become as valuable as diamonds. What prompted this top level financial statement is that a heart specialist advised a group of Connecticut club women that dishwashing is good for their husbands' hearts. From the masculine viewpoint that's just plain treason. The doctor was obviously striving for popularity among the women of America when he muttered, "If men would get up from dinner and wash the dishes instead of settling comfortably in an easy chair they would gain less weight, delay the onset of hardening of the arteries of their vulnerable hearts, and live longer. Some fellows being pried from a comfortable chair for K. P. duty may wonder if it's worth it to live longer. If this sad situation becomes a reality, an automatic dishwasher in the home will become a necessity instead of a luxury. What man can look his best with "dishpan hands"?

In Cincinnatti a fellow was in the Federal Building looking at his picture on the "Wanted" board when FBI agents nabbed him. It shows you what vanity can lead to. But it's practicality that will lead you to our lot when it's time to replace the family car with a newer model. We have a fine selection of used cars, each thoroughly cleaned and reconditioned before being placed on the lot. Select your next car where you know dependability and economy are the standards. E. W. Sewer Department Tests New Equipment

Sewer department personnel are shown running tests on a new machine designed to clean main lines quickly and efficiently in much less time than the job usually takes.

The equipment includes two units just like the one above with 600 feet of cable attached. The cable runs through the sewer from one manhole to another. After connecting the two machines by the cable, it is possible to use power from a gasoline engine to move a bucket in either direction. The bucket expands to the size of the pipe for a thorough cleaning, then it is returned to the downstream end and dumped into a waiting truck.

The machine is shown dumping last year's supply of cinders from the West State sewer, near the North Side Disposalplant.

STIFF IN THE NECK

NEW YORK (AP)—In beginning his singing career in Broadway night clubs, Don Ameche was fired by the late Texas Guinan who thought him "too stiff" to be a popular singer. She was right; Ameche was "too stiff" at the time. He had a boil on his neck.

Later he returned from triumphs in Hollywood movies to star in the Broadway stage musical, "Silk Stockings." The boil on his neck had then become just a painful memory.

New Berlin Students Honor Basketball Team

NEW BERLIN — The students of New Berlin High school were highly elated and paid tribute Monday in school assembly to their coach, Bill Hovey, and the Pretzels — who won the Sangamon County basketball tournament for New Berlin Friday for the first time in 18 years. New Berlin High school won the county tournament two consecutive years at that time — in 1941 and 1942.

The student body and cheerleaders were also to be commended, as New Berlin had also brought home the Good Sportsmanship trophy from the tournament. Two members of the student councils of all participating schools had judged each evening of the tournament, on a point system judging, the best cheerleaders, and the best sportsmanship on the part of the spectators. A total of 22 votes were cast each evening. This was the first year a Good Sportsmanship Award had been given in the Sangamon County tournament. However, New Berlin High was proud to have brought home such an award from the Routt Invitational tournament in 1957-58.

Pretzel players are Bob Bond, Carl Comparo, Tim Sullivan, Ed Harney, Vic Edwards, Ricky Riess, Stan Winkler, Harold Wheeler, Tom Drury and Mike Carriger.

Following is a schedule of coming events at the New Berlin High school.

Feb. 12: Lincoln's Birthday — no school.

Feb. 13: Freshman Bake Sale — Danenberger's Store, New Berlin and Town Hall, Loami, beginning at 10 a.m.

Feb. 16: Basketball game — Pleasant Plains at Pleasant Plains.

"LIVE-ON" LUXURY

We are very lucky to be living in an era where company manners and company rooms have become extinct. The thing that distinguishes today's happy home-maker from the majority of those of the past is that the line of demarcation that used to exist between the family's daily routine and the elaborate planning and special efforts made to please guests has been wiped out. Today we plan our homes to make everyday a sturdy link in our chain of gracious living. We select furnishings and floor coverings that satisfy our desire to be surrounded by beauty and luxury, and fill our need for practicality as well.

At first glance the room sketch above might seem to be impractical but such is not the case. The rugs — pale French blue (around which the decor has been planned) — are luxurious but sturdy — afford many years of live-on luxury. The deep cushiony nylon pile is scrubbable and fade-proof. French blue — a shade deeper than the rug — is repeated in the sofa cover. Club chairs in warm dusty coral add a strong color note. Walls and draperies are a pale pinkish sand color.

Note how nicely the traditional tables fit into the contemporary setting.

When appointing your home with furnishings and accessories it is well to remember that "appropriateness" counts. To that end we strive always to bring you a wide variety of well-styled pieces that will blend with each other and with what you already have. So be sure and shop here first!

'Do You Know This Man?'

Reds In Purge Trials Amused To HearPhotoShowedDangerousSpy

By ENDRE MARTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — During the bloody purge trials in the Soviet satellite countries in the late 1940s the defendants were usually confronted with a photograph.

"Do you know this man?" they were asked. The answer usually was a blank stare. The picture, the court was told, showed the most dangerous spy of the "imperialists," the arch - enemy of communism and the chief agent of U.S. intelligence.

The carefully handpicked audience frequently reacted with a snicker. It was hard to believe that the bespectacled, white - haired man with a benevolent smile should be a top expert in cloak and dagger operations.

The man pictured was Allen Welsh Dulles, now director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Today Dulles displays the same smile when he tells congressional committees about the Soviet Union's strength.

He is regarded as the greatest authority in intelligence since the death of William J. "Wild Bill" Donovan, the man who hired him.

All signs indicate the 66-year-old Dulles likes his $22,000 a year hush-hush job. Friends quote him as saying his sole ambition in government is to stay on as intelligence chief for the rest of his life.

Every morning a terse summary of CIA's intelligence reports winds up on President Eisenhower's desk. It simply could not be written with the slightest tinge of subjectivity, Allen Dulles believes.

In his opinion only the naked truth, however unpleasant it sometimes may be, can help the President to make his decisions.

His diplomatic service included duty in Vienna, Berne, Switzerland, and in Turkey. In 1926 he resigned and joined the New York law firm of Sullivan and Cromwell, which also included his brother, John Foster, the late secretary of state.

Early in World War II Donovan recruited him for the Office of Strategic Services, an outfit concerned with ferreting out enemy secrets. His job was to organize an American espionage center in Switzerland where he found contact with German and Italian underground leaders.

The United States had fairly good knowledge on what was going on in Hitler's headquarters, indicating that Dulles succeeded in planting his agents in Nazi Germany.

Dulles became deputy director of CIA in 1951 and two years later was named to head the supersecret organization.

Ashland Officials Chart Future Of Village

Ashland village officials look over the newly published General Plan report book. From left to right are: standing, Raymond Allen, Ralph Weber, Albert Yancy, Willard Evans and Joe Reiser, trustees. Seated, from left to right are Mayor William Quinley, Robert Hager, village clerk, Tom Price, village treasurer, and James Edwards, trustee.

The book is ready for distribution to residents of Ashland. Mrs. Leta Hammack will give one to each family upon payment of the water bill at the city hall. The book is a 100 page comprehensive study of Ashland prepared by Gregory Bassett, the city planner, in which he gives historical background, the need for planning, statistics that concern population, physical factors, etc., an evaluation of their community with its problems, opportunities, goals and principles and finally a general plan for land use and community facilities. Many excellent color charts and maps are included in the report.

The general plan serves as a guide for the future physical development of Ashland.

With The Girl Scouts

Monday, February 8, is the 50th anniversary of the Boy Scout movement. Happy Birthday, Boy Scouts, from all the Girl Scouts of Illinois Prairie Council! May you have many more birthdays and fulfill your motto "Ever Onward."

February is a busy month for Girl Scout leaders in this area with a full calendar of workshops, training courses and neighborhood meetings. Troops, too, are very busy with observances of Lincoln's birthday, Valentine's Day, Washington's birthday and Girl Scout Thinking Day on Feb. 22nd. Girl Scout Thinking Day is a special observance of International Friendship when the girls remember Girl Scouts all over the world and honor their founder, Juliette Low, a pioneer in world friendship.

Last week 13 new leaders attended the two-day basic training sessions held in the Scout office. Mrs. Hartman and Mrs. Charles Nicholson conducted the meetings. Training was given both Brownie and Intermediate leaders.

Members of the camp committee met Wednesday at the Scout office to take inventory of camp equipment and order additional equipment for next summer.

Music Workshop

On Tuesday, Feb. 9, at 9:30 a.m. in the Scout office will be presented the third film workshop on "Music and Musical Instruments." These workshops are presented by expert artists and technicians, assisted by television actress Shari Lewis, with helpful suggestions to troop leaders for activities for young girls. Also a complete list of references is given. These program guides are given to all who attend and are useful additions to the troop notebook.

"Music and Musical Instruments" will present ideas for many different types of homemade instruments and a variety of kinds of music which girls can reproduce as individuals or as a troop.

Members of the Board of Directors will meet Wednesday morning, Feb. 10, at 9:30 o'clock at the Scout office. There are several new members on the Board who were elected at the Council meeting in January and this will be their first meeting.

Neighborhood meetings will be held next week as follows:

Tuesday, Feb. 9, at 1:30 p.m., Greene County Neighborhood at White Hall.

Wednesday, Feb. 10, at 1:30 p.m. Scott County Neighborhood at Winchester.

Thursday, Feb. 11, at 9:30 a.m., Cass County Neighborhood at the Congregational church in Beardstown.

Members of the Finance Committee of the Board of Directors will meet Friday morning, Feb. 12, at 10 o'clock at the Scout office.

Troop Activities

Intermediate Girl Scouts of Troop 35 of Bluffs had a wonderful day in Jacksonville Saturday, Jan. 30. They toured MacMurray College, Illinois College and Passavant Hospital in the morning. They ate lunch at the Ranch House, then the troop divided into two groups. One group went to the Times theater to a movie, and the other group went to the Gross Animal Clinic and Strawn Art Center. They returned home at 5 p.m.

The girls are planning to present the Boy Scout troop in Bluffs with a birthday cake on the occasion of the Scouts' 50th birthday on Feb. 8.

A valentine party and troop dramatic show is being planned by the girls of Intermediate Troop No. 75 of South Jacksonville school to be held at the school on Feb. 9 at 7:30 p.m. Girls of Troop No. 41 and No. 16 have been invited as well as members of the office staff. This will be a fine intertroop activity for this troop of older Intermediate girls so that they may show the girls who have just been invested what some of the program is when they advance a little farther in Scouting.

The girls of Troop No. 75 are also inviting their parents to the party to give them a look at the girls' work and as a thank-you for their help whenever asked.

Troop No. 65 of Meredosia entertained the girls of Troop No. 66, also of Meredosia, at their regular meeting Tuesday, Feb. 2, at their club room. Mrs. Joe Newman, Jr., a native of England, spoke to the girls and answered questions about her native land and customs. This helped them to fulfill their International Friendship requirement for second class Scouting. Girls of Lincoln patrol of Troop No. 65 served refreshments of cookies and milk to the 34 girls and four leaders present.

Friday afternoon the Brownies of Troop No. 54 of North Jacksonville school, Mrs. Elvin DeFrates and Mrs. Helen Campbell, leaders, surprised the Cub Scouts of Pack 129, Dens 3 and 5, with a huge birthday cake honoring the 50th anniversary of Boy Scouts. The boys were working on rockets as a centerpiece for a potluck supper for their parents to be held next Monday and the cake was a welcome gift. Making the presentation were Doris Martin, president of Troop No. 54, and Carrie Campbell, vice president of the troop.

THE LADY AND THE GIANT

By Clarence Budington Kelland

© 1959 by Clarence Budington Kelland © 1959 by The Curtis Publishing Company Distributed by NEA Service

XXIV

Mr. David Hannum, one of the syndicate which owned the Cardiff Giant, came into my office with a gentleman whom I never had seen before, but who was introduced to me as Colonel Wood, a professional showman. This individual was to have charge of exhibiting the giant in various cities throughout the counrty. Both men were angry and disturbed.

"Orrin," Mr. Hannum said, "we want ye should git out an injunction agin P. T. Barnum."

"To stop him," I asked, "from doing what?"

"Exhibitin' an imitation of our giant," Mr. Hannum said. "I hear tell he's hired a sculptor to carve out a statue to be as like ourn as two peas, which he aims to exhibit in his museum on Broadway as the Cardiff Giant."

"Mr. Hannum," I said gravely, "I fear you will fall afoul of a legal maxim, sir."

"Sich as?" demanded the banker and horse trader.

"He who comes into a court of equity must come with clean hands," I said impressively.

Mr. Hannum examined his horny, callused paws and squinted at me under the peak of his cap. "Look tol'able washed to me," he said.

"I was not referring to physical cleanliness, but to ethical cleanliness. I question," said I, "if the courts will entertain an action to compel Mr. Barnum to cease and desist from exhibiting an imitation of a humbug."

Mr. Hannum fixed me with his shrewd, beady eyes. "Supposin' our giant is a humbug," he said. "Which I don't admit. We had ourn first, didn't we?"

"Mr. Hannum," I said in my most dignified manner, "it is well for a client to be absolutely truthful with his lawyer. Do you believe your giant to be a veritable petrified monster, a statue of great antiquity, or a fraud?"

His reply was characteristic. "Some say one way, some say another," he told me. "Naow take Perfessor Alexander McWhorter—him that teaches in Yale College Divinity School."

"Yes?" I said.

"He claims," said Hannum, "that it's turrible ancient, and was wrought by them old Phoenicians. He claims the's a Bible-times inscription to be deciphered onto it. An' take Professor White, of Yale Medical School. What's he declare? He examined it with what he calls an achromatic glass, which sounds to me like a durned impressive tool. He states emphatic that the pores in the skin proves it's teetotal ancient. Also he says mebby the's an inscription. Other impressive fellers say it's a petrified body that walked the earth before history started up."

"Very well," I said. "I will start an action. But not an action based upon the assumption that this carving is either petrified flesh or of great antiquity. But upon the grounds that it is the genuine Cardiff Giant and is entitled to that exclusive designation."

• • •

I had scant hopes of succeeding in my action brought against Mr. Barnum, but Hannum had a right to his day in court; so, as soon as papers could be prepared, I filed suit. By this time, the third week in an exceptionally cold December, the giant was shipped from Albany to New York and placed on exhibition there. Barnum, always alert, immediately advertised Hannum's giant was a fraud and that his giant was the genuine and original. Which, of course, whetted public interest and attracted large crowds of spectators.

Our families were dining together on the Sunday before Christmas when mother broke a silence, speaking to Mrs. Fox.

"I've been thinking," she said. "Madam Janeway will be alone on Christmas Day."

There was a silence—almost an appalled silence. Then Lossie said breathlessly, "But it's our day. Our day!"

Our parents did not know. They did not know, as we did, that there was something peculiar about Madam and her relations with her servant Oscar. In all Syracuse there was nobody besides Lossie and me who knew that all was not normal in that house across the street. What it was we did not know. But it was some unhappy thing, and we felt, instinctively perhaps, that the unhappy thing should not be permitted to intrude upon our happy intimacies.

• • •

Lossie was facing the window, and I saw her lean forward and look out into the street.

"Madam's sleigh," she said. "But she's not in it. Oscar's on the seat beside the coachman." And then: "It's stopping here." It was, indeed, stopping before the house, and Oscar climbed down with something in his big hands. He mounted the steps to the front door and rang the bell. The hired girl came from the kitchen to answer the ring, and presently came into the parlor with two envelopes in her hand. She handed one to Auntie Fox and the other to mother, who received them with lifted brows.

"I declare!" mother exclaimed and opened her envelope. Now we in Syracuse did not go in much for engraved invitations, but this was an engraved invitation, very expensive and stylish.

"What," asked my father testily, "do you declare about?"

"It's an invitation from Madam Janeway for Christmas Eve," mother said, emphasizing again. "Dinner and entertainment. The idea! Christmas Eve!"

"A big party—a big, formal party on Christmas Eve," said Auntie Fox.

Jerseyville May 'Go To River' To Solve Old Water Problem

By ARTHUR THATCHER

JERSEYVILLE—The problem of the water supply for the City of Jerseyville occupied the attention of the City Council during the regular session of the organization Tuesday evening when reports of the engineers employed some time ago to make surveys were submitted.

The water problem for Jerseyville has been the principal headache for the municipality for a number of years. Developing water shortages in past season of inadequate rainfall in the area led to extension of the existing system in search of additional supplies in the Otter Creek Valley. Additional wells were added and this supplement to the system made it possible for the city water works to carry on.

State Urges Action

The present supply has not been without criticism from the State Board of Health as to quality and during past years there has been repeated insistence that the city do something about the situation to provide a more healthful water for distribution.

The present effort to obtain a final solution has been the result of further pressure from the state that the municipality do something to remedy the situation.

The engineering firm of Warren and Van Praag of Decatur made an extensive report to the council Tuesday night. In abbreviated form for quick analysis, the report sets forth at least three proposals that are being given consideration.

Study Otter Creek Route

Probably the foremost plan being considered is that of going to the river along the Otter Creek Valley route and utilizing as far as possible much of the present system as far as practical.

Another source of supply suggested is the development of a large lake in the immediate vicinity of the City of Jerseyville. Heretofore the lake supply plan has been held in abeyance until an accurate survey of the soil in the area could be made. It has now been determined by the water engineers that a lake may be built with assurance that the water will not disappear via the subsoil in the localities east and south of Jerseyville. The area to the west is not feasible due to the underground makeup of the earth. A lake built in that area could possibly drain itself out via subterranean routes.

Large Lake Proposed

The most desirable site for a lake has been indicated for the McClusky vicinity some seven miles south of Jerseyville. At the suggested point an artificial lake could be constructed at a minimum of expense with a depth at the major part of 75 feet.

The third most desirable plan suggested was one involving a water supply to be furnished by the Alton Water Company. It was indicated, however, that the Alton Company would not guarantee a maximum supply per day of two million gallons in the future, which guarantee was sought based on probable growth of the city and water consumption. Present date consumption is usually around the half million gallon mark.

A scrutiny of future water rates indicates that the present minimum rate may be expected to double to meet the contemplated expenditures in developing the new water system.

Jacks Shade Bethalto In Sudden Death On Ken Norton's Tally

BETHALTO — Kenny Norton swished in an eight-footer in a sudden death overtime to give Jacksonville a 60-58 victory over the Eagles here Friday night.

Both teams were all tied at 58-all after the regulation playing time had ran out and the score remained the same in the first overtime as Jacksonville controlled the ball waiting for a good shot. The strategy almost backfired when a bad JHS pass was plucked off and the Eagles got a shot but missed and the teams were forced into the sudden death.

Chipper Baldwin almost bagged the second win for the Crimsons when his shot just missed in the do or die playoff but Norton gathered the ball off the side of the basket and pumped it through for the victory.

Tom Christison did a real good job for Coach Bob Kraushaar, who was subbing for the ailing John Chapman at home with the flu. Tom led Crimson scorers with 17 points and really helped the Crimson cause with eight points in the final period. Richard Sweeney also turned in a creditable performance under the boards.

The Eagles are now five and 12 for the season while JHS now holds a 2-12 season's mark.

Routt Breezes Past Perry For 20th Win

Victory number 20 came easy for Routt's Rockets Friday evening as they checked Perry for 22 points, six in the first half, and then breezed to a dull 56-22 decision over the Pioneers on Our Saviour's boards.

Routt jumped off to an early 10-0 lead with guard Jack Lawless spearheading the drive and the issue was never in doubt.

Perry collected only two points in the first quarter and only four more in the second canto to trail at halftime, 30-6.

Both teams made six of 22 free throw attempts but Routt held the decisive edge in field goals, 25-6.

Fred Curtis collected most of his points in the closing minutes of play to pace Rocket scorers for the evening with 16 followed by Jack Lawless' 12, most of which came in the first half.

Larry Whitaker led the low scoring honors for Fred Witham's Pioneers with nine.

It was the lowest score Routt had held an opponent to this season. The previous low had been Kincaid's 28 points in the Waverly tournament.

The 15th Annual East St. Louis high Holiday tourney will be held next December with four new teams entered including Paris, Alton, Peoria Central and Madison replacing Danville, Dupo, Springfield and Christian Brothers high (Quincy).

Top seeded teams in the regional tourneys next month include New Berlin, Jerseyville, Havana, Watseka, Springfield, Pittsfield, Clinton, Mounds (Douglas), Mattoon, St. Charles, Sandburg (Orland Park), Kankakee, Bridgeport, Macomb, Litchfield, Paris, Lockport, Hinsdale, Collinsville, Elgin, Schlarman (Danville), Decatur, Sycamore, Sterling, Belleville, Normal, Mt. Vernon, Farmington, Proviso (East), Galesburg, Braidwood, Gibson City, York (Elmhurst), Greenville, Carthage, McLeansboro, Kewanee, Barrington, Lincoln, Ottawa, Metropolis, Fulton, Herrin, Prospect (Mt. Prospect), Pekin, Peoria Richwoods, Pinckneyville, LaSalle-Peru, Quincy, Rockford East, Rock Island, Okawville, Taylorville, Aledo, Freeport, Teutopolis, Champaign, Waukegan, Foodland (Streator), and West Frankfort.

Wyoming Community high board of education accepted a bid of $874 by Hillyard Chemical Co., of St. Joseph Mo., to resand and refinish the new gym's floor. The work will be done during the summer. Ron Horwedel of V.I.T. (Table Grove) set a new individual scoring for that Fulton County high school Tuesday night with 53 points scored against Industry. He has been the top scorer for the Hornets all season and he got 17 the first half and then warmed up, dumping in 20 the third period and 16 in the last quarter. The mark surpassed the school record set in 1958 by Jerry Curless, former V.I.T. ace now on the varsity squad at the University of Illinois. John Holm of Taylorville set the school record with 38 points in a game last week beating the old mark set by Billy Ridley set in 1952 by scoring 37 points. Canton's all time single game scoring record is held by Dave Downey against Decatur's Reds in 1958 by making 44 points at Decatur's gym.

Havana's Ducks took the stone with them to Lewistown Tuesday night and returned home with it as the Indians fell to Coach Jack Hills' five 55-29. The Macon County five is tied for first place in the Spoon River conference. The stone ax is the traditional symbol of athletic superiority between the two schools. Canton's improved Little Giants lost a tough game at Peoria Spalding 74-72 with John Malone scoring 28 points against his old mates. He played varsity bill for Spalding's coach Jim Smarjesse last season and transferred to Canton last September. Malone scored 19 points the first half on all kinds of shots, long jumpers from the sides, drives, rebounds and a nice hook or two. He has scored 55 points in the last two games against East Peoria and Peoria Spalding.

Coach Don Sullivan's surging LaSalle-Peru five surprised Ottawa's Pirates in beating the Gil Love coached team 60-49. LaSalle-Peru made its first appearance in the rated groups this week and knocked the only ranked team with an unbeaten record among the top 15 basketball teams of the state. Sullivan formerly coached at Argenta and Peoria Spalding before moving to LaSalle-Peru high in the Fall of 1955. John Love, son of the Ottawa high mentor, is the top scorer for the Pirates.

Springfield high will start the regional by playing Auburn at Springfield's Griffin regional tourney. Virden will meet Feitshans in another first round headliner. Collinsville high will meet Roxana's Shells in the opener of their regional and other tough teams in that one include Alton, Edwardsville, Granite City, Wood River, Madison and the Triad district winner.

Fight Results

NEW YORK (AP)—Rory Calhoun used a left jab to frustrate short-armed Billy Ryan Friday night and landed enough punches to earn a unanimous decision in a 10 - round bout at Madison Square Garden.

Although Calhoun, 164½, gave away 6½ pounds to Ryan, he romped home easily on all three official cards. Judge Frank Forbes had it 9-1, Judge Tony Rossi 7-3 and Referee Ruby Goldstein 7-1-2. The AP card was 8-2 for Calhoun.

Both men appeared willing, but Ryan's short arms made it difficult for him to get inside with his chopping right hand punches. Only in the seventh and eighth rounds was he able to land with any consistency.

A crowd of about 3,000 paid some $7,000 to see the nationally televised contest which was Ryan's first main event in the Garden and on the TV cable.

Raoul Sudre, 21, a Cornell senior from Casablanca, competes with the foil on the Big Red fencing team.

Jerseyville 66 Beardstown 56

JERSEYVILLE—The host Jerseyville Panthers took a victory from the Beardstown Tigers Friday night as Gail Gisy paced the offensive drive of the Panthers and looked good off the boards.

The Panthers jumped off to an early lead in the game and held onto it throughout the game with little serious contention coming from the Tigers until the final quarter, but the strong Jerseyville five finished 10 points in front of the Tigers as the game came to a close.

Gisy held the high point honors for the night with 28 tallies via 8 field shots and 6 charity tosses with Tom Andes being the only other Panther man to hit double figures with 15.

Gary Buck and Chuck Orwig paced the Tigers with 19 and 16 points respectively, as the Tigers outscored Jerseyville from the field, but were weak from the charity line.

The victory gives Jerseyville a 7-11 record and the Tigers hold a 6-9 record for the season.

Macomb 77 Havana 48

HAVANA — The Havana Ducks dropped their fifth game Friday night as a strong Macomb five defeated them 77-48 in a Spoon River Conference game.

Roger Graham paced the victors with 22 points, the high of the game, as the Bombers took a slight lead in the first quarter and ran it up in the second to lead at the half by a comfortable margin of 40-20.

In the second half the Ducks continued to fall behind as Macomb kept their offensive drive rolling to put the score at 60-28 at the end of the third quarter and an impressive 77-48 reading at the final horn.

Randy Eaton paced the losing Ducks with 19 points, but the Ducks were only able to connect on 30% of their shots with the Bombers hitting 52%. ROODHOUSE — Lyle Winters was the hero of a Friday night game between the Roodhouse Railroaders and the Pleasant Hill Wolves, as he sank the winning charity toss in the final 5 seconds of the game to add another victory to the Roodhouse column.

The game began as a nip-and-tuck battle in the first quarter with the Railroaders taking the slight edge at the end of the first stanza 21-15. In the second quarter the Wolves caught fire and outscored the Roodhouse five to emerge at the half-time with a 48-35 lead.

The third frame was hotly contested as the Wolves were determined to hang onto the lead and at the end of the quarter still had a slim 9 point advantage, 56-47. As the final quarter opened the Railroaders were able to come back and take the game by 1 point. The big gun for the Roodhouse five was Phil Hopkins with 18 tallies and the high point man of the game. Even scoring characterized the losing five as four of the five hit the double figures.

Chicago National Boat Show Opens

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago National Boat Show opened Friday with an estimated 35,000 persons jamming the Amphitheatre.

Opening night ceremonies included the cracking of a bottle of champagne by Miss Dreamboat of 1960 — Charlene Lundberg of Plainfield, Ill.

Miss Lundberg, recently chosen Miss Photoflash by the Chicago Press Photographers Assn., smashed the bottle across a brass ship's bell in front of a backdrop representing an old time Mississippi River showboat.

Gov. William G. Stratton was presented the first boat number to be issued under the new Illinois Boating Act which goes into effect March 1.

The crowd viewed more than 10 acres of exhibits including 919 vessels from rowboats to luxury yachts.

Becerra, Ortiz Retain Crowns

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two punches—a left hook to the chin and a right shot to the jaw—kept the world bantamweight and junior welterweight crowns on the heads of their owners—Jose Becerra of Mexico and Carlos Ortiz of New York City.

The punches gave painful headaches but sizeable purses to the challengers, Alphonse Halimi, the French Alberian, and Raymundo Torres, the youthful Mexican.

Becerra, the 23-year-old bantam champ was behind on points when one of his first punches of the ninth round—a crackling left hook—exploded on Halimi's chin.

Down went Halimi, ending his hopes of regaining the title he lost to Becerra last July.

Shouts of "ole" rang through the Memorial Coliseum Thursday night where a crowd of 31,830, mostly Mexican, paid a record California gate of $363,890 to see the double championship card.

Both fights were scheduled for 15 rounds.

For Torres, it was simply a case of too much, too soon.

The 18-year-old, unbeaten in 31 previous starts, had 24 knockouts to his credit. But he was outclassed from the outset by Ortiz, the handsome Puerto Rican kingpin of the reactivated junior welter division.

He put Torres away after 2 minutes, 56 seconds of the 10th round with a whistling right to the jaw.

The largest daily double ($538) at Monmouth Park's 1959 meeting at Oceanport, N. J., resulted when Have Nick Luck and Impressionable scored on June 18.

MacMurray Shows Strain Of Layoff In Loss To Rockhurst

KANSAS CITY—Rockhurst College capitalized on MacMurray's three-week layoff and broke the Highlanders' five-game winning string here Friday night, 86-72. MacMurray had been idle since January 16 and the exam vacation showed up in the slow start they got when Rockhurst jumped off to a 15-3 lead in the first three minutes of the contest.

The Highlanders rallied briefly in the first half when they closed the gap to five points, 29-24, but Rockhurst's domination of the boards paid off for a 42-32 halftime lead.

Rockhurst controlled anywhere from a 14 to 18 point lead most of the second half but the clan rallied with a full court press and outscored the winners, 10-2, in two minutes of play to cut the deficit to 74-66, but that's as close as they got.

Gary Little, who played an outstanding defensive game as well as a sparkling offensive game, kept the Highlanders in the contest with 26 points.

MacMurray hit 16 of 30 free throws and averaged 38 per cent of their shots from the field. But Rockhurst sank 30 of 38 charity awards and connected on 28 of 58 shots for a 55 per cent game mark.

The win was Rockhurst's 11th of the season and their seventh in a row.

Tigers Drop 54-47 Decision To Bluffs

A good exhibition of shooting and ball handling paid off for the Bluffs Bluejays Friday night as they downed the ISD Tigers by a 54-47 score in an exciting game to the end.

Paced by Lee Fredrick giving a good showing of set shooting and driving, the Bluejays took an early lead in the first quarter and were not challenged for it until late in the third quarter.

ISD was plagued by many mistakes in the early minutes of the game and as the first quarter drew to a close they were trailing behind the Bluffs men by a 15-9 reading. In the second quarter Fredrick kept up the offensive drive and Kund played a good game off the boards for the Bluejays, as the score at halftime was 31-26, still in favor of Bluffs.

In the third stanza a matching game was played until late in the quarter ISD made their bid for the lead and with 2:45 sec. left in the game they edged ahead by 4 points, 39-34, but Bluffs soon came back and tied the game at the end of the quarter 39-all.

In the final quarter the Tigers were able to even-up the game only once in the early minutes at 43-43, and in the remaining minutes the Bluejays controlled the ball well as they pulled into 7 point lead, and the game ended with the score reading 54-47, giving Bluffs victory number 12.

TV NEWS

by DON SHUMAKER

Two TV pals are nearing a parting of the TV ways. The pals: Johnny Crawford, young Mark McCain on ABC - TV's "The Rifleman," and Bosco, the 10-year-old stallion he rides in the western series. Bosco's TV days are numbered. Johnny has always wanted a quarter horse, a horse named for its speed at a distance of a quarter-mile, and now he's going to get one. When he does, Bosco will be retired to a TV pasture . . . at least on "The Rifleman." There are no hard feelings on Johnny's part. In fact, he is particularly fond of the horse, because he learned to ride on him. But the boy has always wanted a quarter horse, and not long ago he got his wish purely by chance.

Johnny was making a personal appearance in a horse act in St. Louis. Ben Kraus, who supplied the horses for the show, invited Johnny out to see his breeding farm . . . and his quarter horses. One look at Johnny's face as he watched the speedy little steeds was enough for Ben. On the spot he presented Johnny with a soon to be born quarter horse colt. Fortunately for old Bosco, the new colt, Archibald, won't be able to take over the reins for at least a year. Until then, Bosco will continue to carry Johnny over the rugged terrain of the TV range. And if you want to continue to enjoy TV at its best, your set should be operating at its best. At Shumaker TV and Appliance we provide quick, dependable service at reasonable rates. Our experienced technicians can find the trouble and correct it quickly, thus saving you time and money. SHUMAKER TV AND APPLIANCES. 222 East State. Phone 5-6595.

Truck Overturns, Hogs Scatter West Of City

A tractor-trailer truck loaded with 130 hogs ran out of control on a soft shoulder Friday afternoon and overturned, loosing its cargo over the surrounding countryside. The accident happened about five miles west of the city on State Route 104. Rain and thawing temperatures hampered efforts to remove the wrecked truck. Shown on the right mired in the mud is Brummett's wrecker which was summoned to the scene. The wrecker succeeded in pulling itself out and then pulled the truck back onto the highway.

Hogs from the wreckage were rounded up by neighbors in the area for some time after the mishap, and later loaded into two relief trucks. Fog, rain and ankle-deep mud hampered the round up.

Driver of the truck, Robert D. Downey of Meredosia, was not injured. Sixteen hogs were killed and extensive damage was done to the truck.

State Trooper Edmund Heyer attended at the scene of the accident. Driver's License Examiner Frank Spaulding directed traffic over a detour while the wreck scene was being cleared.

HASTE MAKES WASTE

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)— Glen Fowler, Oklahoma amateur golf champion, was taking care of the home and his son while his wife was away for a few days. He decided to wash some golf balls in the dishwasher to save time. Hot water melted the balls into a gooey substance that adhered to the dishes.

Four Autos Are Damaged In Two Mishaps Friday

A Ford driven by LeRoy Leach, 938 N. Church, and a Chevrolet driven by Harry L. Griswold, 1606 Mound avenue, were involved in a collision at the intersection of Morgan and Church streets at 1:15 p.m. Friday. Leach was going north on church when the accident occurred. Griswold was going west on Morgan.

The auto driven by Leach had extensive damage to the front end. It was towed to the Arthalony garage by Arthalony's wrecker. The entire left side and left front axle of the Griswold auto were damaged. It was towed to Lukeman's garage.

A third car, a 1955 Pontiac, which was parked properly at the northwest corner on the intersection on Church street, had the windshield broken, presumably from flying metal from the other autos. The Pontiac is owned by Mrs. Hobart Rigg, route one, Jacksonville.

Griswold sustained a cut on the forehead in the crash.

Two other cars were damaged in an accident in the 300 block of North Main at 5 p.m. Friday. However, both autos left the scene under their own power.

Shelba J. Bourn was going north on Main street, and Harry L. Williams was making a left turn from the parking lane next to the curb. The front fenders, grill, bumper and hood of the Bourn auto were damaged. The Williams auto sustained damage to the left rear fender and bumper.

Williams was issued a ticket for failure to yield the right-of-way. Sgt. Brune and officer Cottingham attended at the scene.

Barn Burns At Schroeder Farm Near Meredosia

MEREDOSIA—A barn and its contents were totally destroyed by fire early Friday morning at the home of Harold Schroeder, three miles east of this city.

Six sows and several small pigs perished in the blaze, which was discovered at 4:20 a.m.

Mr. Schroeder succeeded in drenching a nearby tool shed which was saved, although the door was scorched.

Members of the Meredosia volunteer fire department responded to the alarm, but the barn was a mass of flames and could not be saved.

A large quantity of hay, farm implements, and tools were lost.

The loss was partly covered by insurance.

Cause of the blaze was undetermined, but is believed to have been caused from heat lights or defective wiring.

Funeral Services For Mrs. Ornellos

Funeral services for Mrs. Lois Ornellos were held at 2 p.m. Friday at the Williamson Funeral Home with the Rev. Robert Morris officiating. Mrs. Francis Angel presided at the organ.

Pallbearers were Paul Henson, Harold Wilder, George W. Robinson, Frank Carson, Ernest May, Leo Clancy and Carl Evans.

Interment was in Memorial Lawn Cemetery.

FIRST WIN IS DECISIVE

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Washington had never won in the Rose Bowl until the Huskies trounced Wisconsin, 44-8, on New Year's Day. Washington's best effort in the classic had been a 14-14 tie with Navy in 1924. The team lost three other times. Wisconsin's only other Rose Bowl appearance resulted in a 7-0 loss to Southern California in 1953.

A total of 298 players performed in National League baseball games last season. Of this total 57 appeared in less than 10 games.

It's not a record-busting string of trout that brings the smile to globe-girdling Wally Taber's face. It's that they came off lofty Mount Kenya astraddle the equator, and the rifle is more necessary than a landing net. Taber publicly screens his colorful pair of safari films Friday, Feb. 26, at Jacksonville high school auditorium, 8 p.m., under auspices of the Jacksonville Sportsmen's Club.

The Stayman two-club convention is one of the finest in bridge and is used by every expert in America.

Basically, you respond with two clubs to your partner's opening no-trump, whereupon he will show a four-card major suit if he holds one.

Like any good thing the Stayman convention can be abused and there is no point in using it when you don't have to.

North has 11 high card points and after his partner opens with one no-trump North surely intends to get to game. He can simply raise to three no-trump or he can use the Stayman two-club to see if his partner holds four hearts.

The best man to know when to use a convention is the inventor and when Sam Stayman sat North in the National championships at Coronado he chose to raise to three no-trump. As Sam pointed out he did not hold four hearts, but even if South held four hearts also Sam wanted to be in no-trump.

Needless to say, Sam's decision was correct. With the heart opening South managed to make five no-trump, but four no-trump was there against any lead.

Four hearts could be made also, but those declarers who bid it went down.

What do you do?

A—Bid four no-trump. Usually the Blackwood bid should be avoided when you hold a worthless doubleton but this time you should be willing to gamble that your partner will hold the king of clubs if he does not hold the ace.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Your partner bids five diamonds to show one ace. What do you do now?
